GERMANS RECAPTURE MEMEL AND ANOTHER TOWN FROM CZAR

Berlin Claims That Russians Have Been Routed From Baltic Seaport and Chased Across Border

RUSSIAN TOWN OF KROTTINGER CAPTURED

Italy Prepares to Launch War Against Spies Weather Halts Dardanelles Fight, West Is Quiet

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 23.—The latest Russian invasion of Germany is said at Berlin to have met with the same fate as its predecessors. Today's official German statement contains the announcement that the Russian forces which captured Memel, east Prussia, have been driven back, and that German troops, pursuing them across the border, have captured the Russian town of Kottingen.

The Russians still are on the offensive in northern Poland but their attacks apparently have been attended by no important results. The German war office says the Russians have been driven back in every instance.

Apart from a few small movements such as have been in progress for several months, the initiative in France and Belgium yesterday was left to the airmen. Aviators of the allies attacked Ostend and German aeroplanes dropped bombs on Rheims.

Italy is preparing rapidly for whatever may result from the negotiations with Austria, now in an important stage. A royal decree soon is to be signed establishing rules designed to suppress spies. Women are to be put to work in the places of men in case of mobilization.

An official Russian communication describes the battle which preceded the fall of Przemysl. It is said that the Austrians left the fortress in a final effort to break through the Russian lines at any cost, but were defeated quickly. Berlin newspapers do not believe the Russian victory will be of great influence on the campaign as a whole, although the fall of the city is described as "a painful blow."

Unfavorable weather still prevailed at the Dardanelles yesterday and no foreign news of movements by the Turkish fortifications were attempted. The allied warships did not leave their anchorages.

Italy Prepares to Launch Vigorous War Against Spies

(By Associated Press.)

ROME, March 23.—(Via Paris.)—A royal decree soon will be signed establishing rules governing the sojourn of foreigners in Italy. The regulations are designed to protect the country against spies.

A movement is under way in Italy to substitute for women for men in work of industry and commerce in case of complete mobilization. It is proposed that the government be paid the wage as now received by men, with the provision that part of it be turned over to the colors.

The law provides that the female workers shall surrender their posts to the soldiers when they are disbanded. An effort has been opened whereby women may register and express an opinion as to what work they are best able to do.

Before adjournment yesterday the chamber of deputies until May 12 Premier Salandra declared the government intended to remain without a parliament, but that a vacation was necessary that the cabinet might center its attention on pressing internal and international questions.

Sweep Into Hungary Now Expected of the Russians

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, March 23.—The fall of Przemysl is regarded here as throwing down the last bar of the gateway into Hungary, and an early Russian advance in that direction is anticipated.

Latest information from the Dardanelles establishes positively that only secondary defenses of the straits have suffered from the bombardment of the allied fleet; the other forts in the narrows are intact.

The lull along the western battle front now apparently is being duplicated in the east, where nothing more than isolated actions are reported.

Aviators of the allies have retaliated

Even Bets Placed War Will End by The Last of June

Lloyd and Sir John French See Early End of War--Odds of 2 to 1 for End by September First

WASHINGTON, March 23.—According to Lloyds and Field Marshal Sir John French, the great European war will soon be history. Another promising outlook for peace is the new break in foreign exchanges today.

According to dispatches from London, betting at Lloyds is even money that the war will be over by June 30, and odds of 2 to 1 that it will be over by September 1.

Sir John French, commander of the British forces in France, is quoted in a Paris paper today as saying:

"I cannot believe it will be a long war, anything promises well for the allies. We are convinced, I and those here, that a decisive and definite victory awaits us at the end of all these hard months of war."

Another break in foreign exchange quotations today between New York and London brought rates down to the lowest within the memory of the oldest bankers. The decline was followed by announcement of the engagement for shipment here of $6,200,000 from the gold holdings of the Bank of England to Ottawa, the largest amount in one day since the return movement to this country began, and bringing the total up to $20,000,000.

This represents nearly one-third of the gold sent from the United States to Ottawa during the early months of the war.

The disturbance of the exchange market is attributed chiefly to the enormous purchase of war supplies in this country by the allies. Change on Paris today wrought a new record.

In connection with the further break in exchange it was understood that several of the leading financial institutions in London are negotiating for temporary loans in this market pending the establishing of permanent credits here. These loans, it is said, are to be subject to call at twenty-four hours' notice, being similar to that applying to call money loans as made to local brokers.

Germans Are Weakening and French Sees End of War

(By Associated Press.)

PARIS, March 23.—"Ammunition, ammunition, nothing but ammunition," that is the essential problem which the war presents, in the opinion of Field Marshal Sir John French, commander of the English forces in France and Belgium, according to the Havas agency's correspondent at British headquarters.

"Ammunition is the prerequisite of all progress and of all pushing ahead," Sir John is quoted as saying in an interview with the Havas correspondent. "Every one needs plenty of ammunition, but the Germans need it more than we do. I have had a feeling for some time past that they were being sparing of their shells. They don't squander them as at the beginning. They are economizing because the lack of raw material necessary for the manufacture of explosives is making itself felt in Germany.

"Neither is the morale of their troops the same. One gets from them an impression of fatigue and lassitude. They had based all their calculations on a sudden smashing victory. That plan failed and the state of mind of their troops has suffered as a consequence.

"Economic difficulties in the interior of the German empire are daily becoming more serious. No doubt the Germans still are far from famine, but they manifestly are hampered in obtaining a good supply and that is a great deal.

"I do not believe it will be a long war. Sporting promises well for the allies. We are convinced, I and all those here, that a decisive and definite victory awaits us at the end of all these hard months of war."

Even Money Placed That War Will End June 30

Stockade and Crib Burn

FORT GAINES, Ga., March 23.—The stockade and crib of Grover Neves, a farmer living about eight miles below here, were destroyed by fire yesterday. The crib contained about 1,000 bushels of corn. The burning is thought to be the act of an incendiary.

FAIR SUBSCRIPTIONS GET ANOTHER BOOST OF MORE THAN $5,000

Grand Total Now Is Over $42,000 and Committees at Work Are Confident of Early Success

CANVASS OF OFFICE BUILDINGS BEING MADE

Ansley and Piedmont Hotels Give $500 Each--Greeks Show Civic Pride by Liberal Subscriptons

New subscriptions totaling $5,200 were reported Tuesday for the Southeastern fair.

Heading the list were subscriptions of $500 each by the Ansley and Piedmont hotels and $200 by the Aragon hotel.

The large majority of the others were subscriptions of $100 each. The large number of the subscriptions was highly encouraging to the campaign committees, as it proved to them a very widespread interest in the fair and a widespread willingness to subscribe.

A feature of Tuesday's subscription list, as of Monday's, was the number of Greeks who are proving their genuine civic interest in Atlanta by putting up their money to help make the fair a success.

J. R. Seawright, who was thought Monday, with his committee's total of $1,300 to have finished in his territory came back Tuesday with $600 more.

GETS $600 MORE.

Walter Ballard, of Lloyd B. Park's committee, whose territory also was thought to have been covered, came back with $600 more.

Other notable work was by the committees of Macon Martin, the hotel committee headed by Bruno Buroffer, L. L. Shivers' committee, A. J. Miller's committee and S. L. Rhorer's committee.

The total of $42,100 brings the subscription well above the halfway mark, the goal of the campaign being $75,000.

And a large number of firms in various lines of business have not yet been called on.

Chairman Ivan E. Allen has announced the appointment of several new committees, which with the assistance of the committees already announced, have begun a systematic canvass of the office buildings of Atlanta, to solicit subscriptions for the remaining half of the preferred stock of the Southeastern Fair association.

The committee chairmen Tuesday showed much enthusiasm and expressed a determination to seek subscriptions with renewed energy and push the campaign to an early completion.

Chairman Allen is in almost hourly consultation with the various committees, working to put the campaign upon a thorough and systematic basis.

Each committeeman present at Monday's luncheon was urged to see his landlord Tuesday in an effort to increase the subscriptions.

TH ECOMMITTEES.

Candler Building Committee—Wilmer L. Moore, chairman; Paul Norcross, John S. Owens, V. H. Kriegshaber, Harry L. Dix, Dr. Francis Jones and Arthur Howell.

Fourth National Bank Building—Henry Schaul, chairman; Thomas W. Freeman, Hugh M. Willet, Julian V. Boehm.

Third National Bank Building—W. C. Wardlaw, chairman; Frank E. Callaway, Haralson Bleckley, Arthur Giles, J. Hall Miller, John J. Eagan.

Building Trades Committee—Dan Farrell, chairman; R. M. Walker, C. G. Bradt, F. J. Coolidge, Jr., J. J. West, Jules Haas, Paul Wesley, C. E. Sciple, J. B. Campbell, J. T. Rose, Charles W. Bernhardt, J. H. Hirsch, Jr., M. E. Ford, D. W. Yarborough, Fitzhugh Knox, F. G. Hanahan.

Lloyd Parks' committee is going to solicit subscriptions in the Empire and Empire Life buildings.

L. H. Shivers' committee will solicit subscriptions in the Healey and Grant buildings.

Morris Rich's committee will solicit subscriptions in the Atlanta National building.

S. L. Rhorer's committee will solicit subscriptions in the Realty Trust building.

FALL OF PRZEMYSL HAILED BY RUSSIANS AS FATAL TO ENEMY

Fate of Whole Hapsburg Empire and Her Ally, Germany Has Been Decided, Petrograd Paper Says

FORTRESS IS REPORTED STILL IN GOOD SHAPE

Six Hundred Guns of Newest Type Found After Austrian Garrison Surrendered, It Is Announced

(By Associated Press.)

PETROGRAD, March 23.—(Via London.)—Highest importance is attached to the fall of Przemysl by the Novoe Vremya. Likening it to the fall of Metz during the Franco-Prussian war and the capitulation of Port Arthur in the Russo-Japanese war, the paper says the last obstacle has been removed to the Russian advance in Galicia.

"Thus is decided the fate of the whole Hapsburg empire, and consequently that of her ally, Germany," the Novoe Vremya continues.

Artillerists here have received information that the defenses of Przemysl are in good condition. Notwithstanding the long siege, and are capable of being put into working order immediately. Six hundred guns of the newest type were found by the fortress.

Evens which preceded the final desperate sortie of the beleaguered Austrian garrison at Przemysl, designed to break through the encircling ring of Russian troops, are described in an official bulletin issued here this afternoon. The statement says:

"During the last days before the final sortie the garrison displayed increased rations. Each soldier was given biscuits to last five days, warm clothing and new boots. Officers were instructed to explain to the troops that if they returned to the fortress an ingloious fate awaited them, consequently they must pierce the Russian front at any cost.

"An easterly direction was chosen for the sortie as the line of least resistance as well as because it led to the district where the Russians had large stores of provisions and munition. More than 20,000 men were ordered to participate in the sortie but several units refused to move. Only the Twenty-third Honved division and some parts of the Eighty-fifth Landwehr and Fourth Hussars took an active part. They were promptly and decisively defeated.

"An official Austrian communication states that the garrison returned to Przemysl because it encountered overwhelming Russian forces. In this connection it is noteworthy that the Russian forces near Przemysl never were large and the great sortie was repulsed principally by territorial troops and reserves. The total number of the captured garrison exceeded Russian expectations.

COMMANDER'S ADDRESS.

"Following is the text of an order issued by General Kusmanek to the garrison of the fortress on March 18, the day before the sortie.

"Soldiers: For half a year we children of almost all nationalities of the beloved fatherland have been incessantly opposing the enemy. With the help of God and your bravery we have successfully defended the fortress against the enemy despite attacks, privations and wiles.

"You already merit the highest gratitude of your commander-in-chief and your land have won the admiration even of the enemy. In the beloved fatherland thousands of hearts beat for you and millions wait with bated breath for news from you. Heroes, I announce to you my last summons. The honor of your country demands it. I shall lead you to pierce with your points of steel the iron circle of the enemy.

"Forward, then on! Even further, unsparing in your efforts, until we rejoin the main army which, after a hard fight, now rages. We are on the eve of a great battle for the enemy will be reluctant to abandon a prize he has coveted so long. Soon more, true defenders of Przemysl, each must have but one thought. That is forward, ever forward. Smash everything that bars your path.

"Soldiers, we have shared our last provisions and munitions. Our country and ourselves forbids that after our glorious struggle we should fall an easy prey to the enemy. Be heroic, warriors, and we shall open the way."

Capture of Przemysl Is Painful Blow, Says Berlin

(By Associated Press.)

BERLIN, Via London, March 22.—Berlin press unites in paying tribute to the defenders of Przemysl who, it is declared, only hunger could subdue. At the same time there is no disposition to make light of the defeat. The Lokal Anzeiger says:

"We have no intention of minimizing the loss our brave allies have suffered. Przemysl was strong and a great fortress. It showed its strength in its proud defense. We mourn with our allies its loss and the loss of its commander and garrison who have won laurels whose glory capitvity cannot destroy."

"While we thoroughly agree with the view of the Austrian general staff that the fall of Przemysl can have no influence on the general situation," says the Kreuz Zeitung, "we nevertheless are honest enough to admit it is a painful blow to our cause."

EMMETT HIGHT ASKS DIVORCE; SAYS WIFE THREATENED HIS LIFE

EMMETT HIGHT and his wife, Mrs. Carrie Deaton Hight, who he is suing for divorce, and their five-year-old son, Lawrence.

Suit Follows Reconciliation Two Months Ago After Mrs. Hight Sued, Alleging Attentions to Nurse

After apparently becoming reconciled with his wife, who filed a divorce suit two months ago and then withdrew it, Emmett Hight brought suit for divorce Tuesday morning against Mrs. Carrie Deaton Hight, charging her with being almost constantly under the influence of drugs and with threatening his life with a shotgun and two pistols.

Hight, who is ill in a local hospital, having moved from his home on Peachtree circle, March 18, because of the alleged cruel acts of his wife, also asks the court for the custody of his five-year-old son, James Lawrence. Hight claims that his wife uses profane and violent language in the presence of the child, and is not a fit person to care for the boy.

Miss Nata Davis, the trained nurse who figured so largely in the suit brought by Mrs. Hight, is not caring for Emmett Hight any longer. Mrs. Hight, with her little son, is in full possession of the Peachtree circle home.

ABUSE IS CHARGED.

Hight and his wife, who was Miss Carrie Deaton, daughter of J. E. Deaton, of Columbus, were married January 6, 1909. In February, 1914, Hight states that he became ill and helpless, and that his wife, instead of showing him sympathy, constantly became more and more abusive to him and to the child.

He states she is addicted to the use of codine, and uses other drugs and opiates almost constantly.

Her sole purpose, he states, is to get his property, and he alleges she recently consulted an attorney to arrange to get his entire estate at his death.

He states she has an aversion for his blood relatives, and only recently informed an aunt of his who visited them, and gave orders that the aunt should not be admitted to their home again.

She says she has an idea that his fortune, which is large, is limitless, and that she thinks she treats her cruelly when she endeavors to make her use some degree of judgment in spending money and running up bills.

Mrs. Hight, in her suit for divorce filed January 5, which was held up by her before a deputy could serve it, on Hight and which was later withdrawn, alleged that Hight's state was worth a million dollars, and asked for half of it for alimony.

NURSE ASKED DAMAGES.

Shortly after the withdrawal of her suit, another trained nurse, Mrs. Mary C. O'Donnell, who had once been jointly in charge of Hight's case, brought suit for $5,000 damages in the city court against Mrs. Hight and Emmett Hight, alleging that Mrs. Hight attacked her and drove her from the house, shooting at her at the same time. This suit, it is understood, has been settled and withdrawn.

As specific instances of cruel treatment Hight alleges that, while he was lying helpless in bed, his wife walked around the house, dragging a shotgun after her, making threats of shooting up the house and shooting him up also.

On another occasion, he alleges, she took a poker, stood over him while he was in bed, and threatened him. After this, he stated in his suit, she once honest enough to admit it is a painful blow to our cause."

U. S. REPLY TO ALLIES ON EMBARGO NOT READY

President Refuses to Give Intimation of Character of the Note

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 23.—President Wilson said today the American reply to the declaration by Great Britain and France of an embargo on commercial intercourse between Germany and neutral countries was not yet ready. At the same time he declined to give any intimation of its character.

It was made clear at the White House that there would be no further correspondence with Germany or Great Britain on obtaining an agreement with reference to footstuffs and the submarine blockade. The president pointed out to callers that the American suggestions were entirely informal, and that the United States had no right to, ask the two belligerents to agree to anything as between themselves, but had thought, as a moral obligation, it should suggest it.

German Paper Defends the Seizure of Dutch Vessels

(By Associated Press.)

AMSTERDAM, Holland, March 23.—(Via London.)—The Frankfurter Zeitung has published an article in defense of the seizure by a German submarine of the Dutch steamers Batavier V and the Zaanstroom in the North sea, and confiscation of their cargoes.

"Insomuch as the Anglo-French proclamation declares foodstuffs to be contraband of war," says the paper, "and aims at preventing their importation into Germany, it must be regarded as a thoroughly justified counter measure when Germany so far as possible prevents importation of foodstuffs to Great Britain."

Seizure of American Ship Dacia Is Declared Valid

(By Associated Press.)

PARIS, March 22.—(Via London.)—A commission of inquiry into the capture by a French cruiser of the American steamship Dacia has declared the seizure valid. The case now goes before the French prize court, which is allowed two months to hand down its decision.

The Dacia belonged formerly to the Hamburg-American line, but changed her registry and became an American ship after the war began. Laden with cotton and destined to Germany she was picked up by a French cruiser and taken into Brest.

Two questions have arisen in connection with the Dacia case: one is the validity of the transfer of her registry, and the other the disposition of her cargo.

WILL D. WATTERS IS SLAIN BY W. DANIEL FOLLOWING QUARREL

After Tragedy Daniel Stood Near Victim for Many Minutes Waiting for Police to Arrive

WATTERS BEGAN FIGHT, ACCORDING TO MANY

Survivor of Tragedy Carried to Grady Hospital With Ugly Wound Inflicted by Adversary During Fight

As the result of a quarrel, said to have grown out of a gambling game Will D. Watters, twenty-five years old, of 204 Washington street, was shot to death in front of the Carnegie library on Carnegie way, shortly after 12 o'clock Monday afternoon by Walter Daniel, forty years old, a tinner, of 111-D Spring street.

Accounts of the shooting by eyewitnesses differ as to the number of shots fired and as to whether Watters fired the first shot, but all accounts agree that Watters either struck Daniel in the head or shot him in the head before the latter pulled his pistol and fired several shots, one of which went through Watters' heart, and the other through his stomach.

DIED IN TRACKS.

Watters died almost immediately after he was shot, and his body was taken to the undertaking establishment of H. M. Patterson & Son, on North Forsyth street, just around the corner from the scene of the shooting.

Daniels is said to have stood and looked at his victim for several minutes after he fell, and to have then walked slowly across Forsyth and Edgewood streets to Gus Cooper's barber shop, 122 North Forsyth street. He waited for ten or fifteen minutes, longer until an officer, who was looking at the motion pictures in the theater, could be summoned and until a patrol wagon filled with policemen arrived from headquarters.

Daniels was bleeding from a wound on the right side of his head, and the police assert that as he left the scene of the shooting he walked to the hospital, where his injury was dressed, after which he was taken to police headquarters and locked in a cell.

About the time Daniel was being put into the ambulance Patrolman McGahee, on whose beat the shooting occurred, arrived from the street restaurant where he had been eating his lunch at the time the tragedy occurred.

MANY WITNESSES.

All the eye-witnesses agree that just prior to the shooting Daniel and Watters, both of whose first names are unknown, were walking east along Carnegie way, and that Watters and Daniel were walking abreast, just at the entrance to the library that Watters either struck or shot Daniel in the head. Some of the witnesses say two men fell away then, and Daniel, after staggering against the library steps, drew his pistol and fired several shots. Some of the witnesses think Watters fired one and Daniel six times. Others say that Watters struck Daniel on the head with a pair of pliers and that Daniel shot at him four times.

L. Todd, a traveling salesman, of 65 1-2 Mitchell street, was standing on the corner of Carnegie way and Forsyth street, looking down Carnegie way. He says he saw the six men coming, toward him; that they were bunched and seemed to be talking earnestly; that suddenly one of the men stepped aside, leaving Watters and Daniel together on the inside of the street; that Watters pulled a pistol and shot Daniel in the head; that Daniel stumbled back into the library steps and pulled his pistol from his right hip pocket while holding to the steps and that he then fired the fatal shot four times and that Watters fell to the street while Daniel fired.

According to Mr. Todd several minutes elapsed before Daniel, who seemed to be dazed, walked over to Cooper's barber shop.

VICTIM DRUNK.

Hugh A. Smith, of 37 Carnegie way, was walking about fifteen feet behind the six men just before the shooting occurred. He says Watters and Daniels were walking abreast; that they seemed to be drinking and that Daniels seemed to be endeavoring to quiet him, telling him not to curse like that on the street; that Watters then pulled in the head with some object; that Daniels was dazed, but pulled his pistol and fired four shots at Watters, who fell to the street and died.

C. L. Manneschmidt, of 49 West Cain street, was walking west along Carnegie way and had passed the six men about a minute or two before he heard the shooting. Two of the men were quarreling, said Mr. Manneschmidt, and he overheard one of them say: "I did it for your sake." Mr. Manneschmidt saw but little of the shooting.

WAITED LONG FOR POLICE.

J. H. Gwinn, of 103 North Forsyth street, was sitting in Newsom's garage, across Carnegie way from the library. When he heard the first shot Mr. Gwinn says he looked out of the window and saw Watters clinging to the iron railing in front of the library; that Watters fired two more shots and Daniels then drew back and fired twice; that Watters fell to the sidewalk; that Daniels stood near Watters' body, looking at it for 21 1-2 minutes by his (Gwinn's) watch, and that no policemen came during that time.

J. G. King, foreman of work directly across Carnegie way, also witnessed the for the German raid on Paris by forays over territory occupied by the German army.

Interest in the blockade centers today in the attack of German aeroplanes in Dutch cargo ships, one of which flew the flag of the Belgian relief commission. Holland is awaiting information from Berlin before making a formal protest.

People of Warsaw Are Depressed, Says Merchant

(By Associated Press.)

LODZ, Russian Poland, March 23.—(Via London.)—A German merchant of this city who has just returned from Warsaw, says a general feeling of uncertainty prevails there. Provisions are very dear, and for some days past there has been virtually no tea, sugar, tobacco or flour to be had. People are depressed. All officials have remained in the city and the Imperial bank is still doing business. The city is very quiet.

Vienna Says Fortress Was Destroyed Before Surrender

(By Associated Press.)

VIENNA, Via Amsterdam to London, March 23.—The following official communication has been issued here:

"After four months' investment, Przemysl has honorably fallen. The commander had received an order to leave the fortress to the enemy in three days, because at the moment of the attack, even with the greatest economy in its food rations, resistance could be maintained for three days only.

"It proved possible to effect the timely destruction of the fortress, with its guns and ammunition, as well as the outer fortifications.

"The capitulation of the fortress, with which possibility the higher command had reckoned for a long time past, has had no influence upon the general situation."

Although the foregoing official communication announced that Przemysl capitulated "after four months' investment," data covering the fighting there seems to indicate clearly that the investment began about the middle of September.

Big German Guns Mounted on Rails at Dardanelles

(By Associated Press.)

PARIS, March 23.—A gale blew through the Dardanelles straits yesterday, and the allied warships did not leave their anchorages, says a Havas dispatch from Athens. The morale of the crews on the vessels of the Franco-British fleet is said to be excellent, notwithstanding their losses, and they are eager to get into action.

It seems certain that forts Chanak Kalessi, Hamidieh and Kilid Bahr still are capable of offering a stubborn resistance. A number of Turkish field batteries have been posted along the straits, and German howitzers have been mounted on rails so they can be moved quickly to threatened points. This is supposed to explain the firing from certain forts such as Kum Kale, which were supposed to have been destroyed.

Serbs and Austrians to Exchange Women Prisoners

(By Associated Press.)

NISH, Serbia, March 23.—(Via London, March 23.)—Through the American minister to Serbia, Charles J. Vohlcka, Serbia and Austria-Hungary have reached an agreement for exchange of interned women, civilian men under eighteen years of age and over fifty, and soldiers incapable of further military service.

Russians Retreating From Memel, Declares Berlin

(By Associated Press.)

BERLIN, March 23.—(By Wireless.)—The following report was given out today at the war office:

Two French night attacks near Carency, northwest of Arras, were repulsed.

"In Champagne German troops successfully blew up mines and repulsed a night attack north of Beausejour. Minor French advances near Combres, Apremont and Flirey were without success. An attack against the German positions northeast of Badonviller broke down under the German fire. The enemy sustained heavy losses.

"Hostile aviators again threw several bombs on Ostend. No damage was done to the military establishments, but several Belgians were killed or wounded. Northwest of Verdun a French aviator was shot down. A French air craft manned with two French non-commissioned officers was forced to land near Freiburg. The occupants of the aeroplane were captured.

"German troops are pursuing the Russians who were driven from Memel, east Prussia. The Germans occupied the Russian town of Krottingen, across the border from Memel, and freed more than 3,000 Germans who had been dragged away from their homes by the Russians."

"Attacks made by Russian troops on both sides of the Orzyc river in Russia Poland were repulsed."

French Claim Slight Progress in Champagne

(By Associated Press.)

PARIS, March 23.—(Via London.)—The official communication given out this afternoon by the war department says:

"The enemy yesterday bombarded Rheims. A German 'aviator dropped bombs on the town and claimed three victims among the civilians.

"In the Champagne region we made slight progress to the east of Hill 196.

"In the Argonne, near Bagatelle, the enemy twice delivered violent counter attacks to recapture the ground he lost on Sunday. Both counter attacks were completely repulsed."

JUDGE ROAN IS DEAD AT NEW YORK HOSPITAL

Noted Georgia Jurist Dies in the New York Polyclinic Hospital Following an Operation

Judge L. S. Roan, former judge of the Georgia court of appeals and former judge of the criminal division of Fulton superior court, died at 4 o'clock Tuesday morning in the Polyclinic hospital in New York City, following an operation.

Judge Roan, whose Christian name was Leonard Strickland, was born February 7, 1849, in Henry county, six miles from Griffin, Ga. His father was a wealthy planter and influential citizen. In his early boyhood the family moved to Hampton, Ga., and there he received his early schooling. Later he attended school at Fayetteville seminary, Fayetteville, Ga., which was conducted by C. C. and Morgan Looney, famous educators of their time. After graduating from the seminary he went to school for one year to the late Peter Francisco Smith, who was subsequently a citizen of Atlanta and a prominent lawyer at the local bar.

His schooling finished, Judge Roan entered the Griffin law office of Cincinnatus Peeples and John D. Stewart to study law. Mr. Peeples, ranked as one of the ablest lawyers in Georgia, was the father of Henry C. Peeples, the Atlanta lawyer, and T. J. Peeples, cashier of the American National bank of Atlanta. Mr. Stewart represented his district in the United States congress.

PRACTICED AT TWENTY.

In 1869 Judge Roan was admitted to the bar at the age of twenty years, and in 1870 he opened a law office at Fairburn, Ga., which was his home, with various intermissions, to the time of his death.

During the administration of the late Governor Joseph M. Terrell in 1902 Judge Roan was appointed judge of the Stone Mountain circuit, which judgeship included the criminal division of Fulton superior court. This office he held continuously until his appointment to the state court of appeals by Governor Slaton in the fall of 1913.

As judge of the criminal division of Fulton superior court Judge Roan presided over practically all the criminal trials in Fulton county from 1902 until 1913. Among the notable trials he conducted were those of Mrs. Daisy Opie for the killing of Callie Scott Applebaum and Leo M. Frank.

In October, 1913, Judge Roan went to the state court of appeals bench on appointment by Governor John M. Slaton, and Judge Ben H. Hill, of the court of appeals, came to the criminal division of Fulton superior court under similar appointment, this division having been taken out of Stone Mountain circuit by act of the legislature in 1913 owing to the great increase in business and made a separate superior court with a judge assigned exclusively to preside thereover.

ON APPELLATE BENCH.

Judge Roan served on the court of appeals until July, 1914, when his health having commenced to fail, he went to Europe on vacation. At the end of his vacation he was unable to return to his duties and in the election for court of appeals judges that year he did not stand for election to the term, because of his failure to regain his strength. Since July, 1914, he declined to undergo medical and surgical attention in the hope of recovery but in spite of careful treatment and his own iron determination he grew steadily worse instead of better, and the end came as the result of an operation when he underwent two weeks ago last Saturday in the Polyclinic hospital.

Judge Roan was married in 1875 to Miss Willie Strickland, of Fairburn, a granddaughter of the late Henry Strickland, one of the leading men of Campbell county and a citizen of Atlanta for some years. They had eight children, of whom five are still living, as follows:

Benjamin S. Roan, Palmetto, Ga.; W. E. Roan, Atlanta; Leonard S. Roan, Jr., Atlanta; Mrs. A. W. Stubbs, Banning, Ga.; Mrs. Henry McCarty, Fairburn.

WIFE AT SIDE.

In addition to these children and his wife, Judge Roan is survived by two brothers and one sister, as follows:

Dr. J. T. Roan, Jesup, Ga.; B. H. H. Roan, Atlanta; Miss Ella Roan, Atlanta.

Mrs. Roan was at the judge's side when he died, and was with him constantly for several months preceding his death. His brother, B. H. H. Roan, and his son, Benjamin S. Roan, left Atlanta for New York at noon Monday upon receipt of a telegram stating that he was not expected to live, and were scheduled to arrive in New York early Tuesday afternoon.

The body will be taken to Fairburn for burial. Arrangements for the funeral will be announced later.

Judge Roan was a splendid character and in his death a host of friends will feel a sense of personal loss. He was considered one of the ablest criminal lawyers in the state. As a judge he tempered justice always with mercy. His mind was intensely active and he read incessantly. He had the kind heart of a woman.

ABLE LAWYER.

Among lawyers who practiced before him he was known for his exercise of common sense in the conduct of criminal trials. He had that profound grasp of the law which enabled him to make it simple. A close student of criminology, he believed there is some good in every man no matter how great his offense against society, and it is said of him that in passing sentence he was never known to speak a harsh word to a criminal, but always tried to appeal to the best there was in them and inspire them with a determination to become good citizens.

So constant was his study that it probably shortened his life. He was absorbed in the progress of thought and science. Often he would surprise even his intimates by his knowledge of complicated subjects.

He was true to every obligation, a man of scrupulous integrity, a gentleman of the highest ideals, respected and loved by all who knew him.

GEORGIA ASKED TO HELP FILL SHIP FOR BELGIUM

Another ship loaded with supplies for 1,500,000 homeless and hungry children of Belgium will sail soon from New York City, and Georgia has been asked to help in filling her holds.

The ship is the Argosy. It will be an Easter gift from the children of America to Princess Marie Joseph, nine-year-old daughter of King Albert and Queen Elizabeth, for the thousands of her small subjects who are suffering from cold and want and loneliness.

Children of Atlanta and Georgia, and their mothers and fathers, are asked to send what contributions they can in the way of cash, clothing or food to Dr. F E. May, secretary of the Georgia relief committee, Grand building, Atlanta. The response will have to be quick, as the Argosy is sailing soon.

Washing Won't Rid Head Of Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp, and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.—(Advt.)

Moore & Branch, attorneys, filed the suit.

WIFE DENIES CHARGES.

Mrs. Hight, at her home on Peachtree circle, Ansley park, denied every charge made by her husband, protesting that she was addicted to drugs and that his charge that she had attempted his life was without foundation.

Her attorney, Reuben Arnold, stated she would file an answer and a cross-bill at an early date.

"I made a mistake when I returned to Mr. Hight after that other affair," said Mrs. Hight. "I love him, and thought I ought to live with him because of Mrs. Lawrence, who is now five years old."

The child came running into the living room.

"Who do you want to live with, Lawrence?" asked Mrs. Hight, tenderly.

"With mamma," said the boy, running up to her.

"I never took but one dose of cocaine," said Mrs. Hight, "and that was given me by the nurse who has figured in our affairs so largely—this Miss Nata Davis. She took it from Mr. Hight's medicine, for he was using it. I am not addicted to drugs, and never was.

"As for mistreating his relatives, his aunt, Mrs. Pace, came to visit us only recently, since my return to this home. I am sure I was always courteous to her. We went to the picture shows together, and there was no trouble. But she and that nurse were always talking together, and plotting."

"Mr. Hight has given me only $55 to run the home since I returned to him several months ago. I have checks to prove it. I have no means of my own whatever. I believe he is worth $700,000 or more. I have never been extravagant.

"There was no quarrel when Mr. Hight left last week to go to the hospital. I kissed him good-bye. The news you bring me of his divorce suit is an utter surprise. But he will never get it. If there's any divorce, I'll get it, and I'll keep my baby, too.

BLAMES THE NURSE.

"I blame the nurse, Miss Davis, for all this. She exerts a strong influence over my husband. She dominated our home, and I was put into the background. No other woman would have remained in a home where the wife objected so strongly to her presence. Mr. Hight is not himself, that is certain. His mind must be affected. Otherwise he would never have made such baseless charges against me, charges which I can disprove by many witnesses.

"I never threatened his life, but he has often threatened mine. I never had a pistol in my hand except when I've taken them away from him. He has more than once threatened to kill me. You remember I told all that in my divorce suit, which I afterward withdrew; how he had me kidnaped from his house, hustled into an ambulance one stormy night and driven against my will to a private sanitarium on Peachtree road. They tendered I was insane, but the next day I called up my lawyer. He told me I need not stay there, and I left.

"I have always tried to be a good and dutiful wife to Mr. Hight, and I think I succeeded. I loved him, and I made allowances for his condition. He has been drunk almost constantly since we were married, until his paralysis came on. He never took me anywhere; we have never had one nice trip since our wedding. He was drunk, always drunk, and his mind weakened under it. I am confident. Certainly he is not a fit person to have control of our boy, and he shall not have him. I am not a bit worried about the outcome of this suit."

HOME OF J. T. THOMPSON AT CALHOUN IS BURNED

DARKEN GRAY HAIR, LOOK YOUNG, PRETTY

Sage Tea and Sulphur Darkens So Naturally that Nobody can tell.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is musy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe for about 50 cents.

Don't stay gray. "Try it! No one can possibly tell that your darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy.—(Advt.)

COURT CALL AT 5:30 A. M. TO ACCOMMODATE GIRL

Fair Witness Goes to Work at Six So Recorder Plans Early Session

At the first blush of rosy dawn Wednesday Judge George E. Johnson will rap with his gavel on his desk at police station, calling to order the earliest session of recorder's court in Atlanta's history.

And the cause of this unearthly 5:30 a. m. court is a girl, a pretty girl—so the officers say—a working girl and a material witness in the case of the city vs. Jim Rose, Jack Newell and S. W. Porter, charged with violating section 1640 of the city code, which deals with the sale of liquor.

This pretty girl goes to work at 6 a. m. and quits when the whistle blows at 8 p. m. She has only thirty minutes for lunch. And since she is a material witness for the city, pray when is she going to testify?

"Why, at 5:30 o'clock in the morning," answered Recorder Johnson, when they asked him. "It will do us all good to get up early for once. I don't want the girl to lose her job, so we'll try this case and then we'll go out and get breakfast. So mind you be here."

And so they are all making their plans accordingly.

The three defendants, who are out on bond, must travel from West North avenue and from Center Hill. The latter will have to rise about midnight in order to be on time.

Judge Johnson himself doesn't have far to travel from his home, 202 Luckie street, so he won't have to get up until 9.

Officers Snead and Vaughan, the prosecutors, say they will stay all night at the station.

Judge James W. Meade thinks he can walk in from his Whitehall street residence and slumber til nearly 5:16.

Inspector George Cornett says he will have to get up at 4:30 if he wants to make it in from his home, 588 Capitol avenue before 5:30.

Attorney John A. Boykin is figuring on a jitney bus to bring him in from where he lives at the far end of Myrtle street out by Piedmont park.

And the girl? Only the policemen know where she lives, and they won't tell.

GRAFANOLAS ARE OFFERED ON EASY PAYMENT PLAN

Atlanta Talking Machine Co. Has Proposition That Is Unique and Attractive

One of the peculiar elements of human nature is its predilection to spend rather than save. This has long been the subject of wide and varied discussions. Economists have written columns about it, while financiers have for years preached frugality and saving, yet each succeeding generation exhibits identically the same weakness.

Most every one has at some time made a purchase on the basis of easy payments. After the contract has been completed, the purchasers almost invariably make the same frank statement—they admit they are glad they entered into such an arrangement and that they are owners of the article in question, but state emphatically that if they had been obliged to first save the money and expend it in a lump sum, they seriously doubt if they would have made the purchase.

This characteristic trait of human nature is being strongly exemplified in the successful sale of Grafanolas by the Atlanta Talking Machine company. Their easy payment plan is unique and attractive. By an initial payment of only 15 cents the purchaser is permitted to take home a $50 grafanola. Then for each succeeding week the payments increase but 15 cents each week. After the twentieth week the payments gradually decrease until the last week when the payment is again only 15 cents. It is quite evident that human nature has not changed and that the habit of saving can best be taught when it is clothed in an attractive disguise.

CHAPMAN WILL PREACH TO BOYS AND GIRLS

Will Tell Them of Story of "Five Kings in a Cave"

A special sermon to Atlanta boys and girls will be delivered Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock by Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman at the Peachtree tabernacle. The evangelist invites parents to bring the children to hear the story of "Five Kings in a Cave." At 7:30 o'clock Dr. Chapman will preach from the text: "He shall be driven from light into darkness, and chased out of the world."

As a prelude to his Monday night sermon Dr. Chapman again took up the doctrines of Pastor Russell; the "Armageddonist," who spoke Sunday night at the Atlanta theater. Dr. Chapman declared that Pastor Russell holds views directly opposed to evangelical Christianity and quoted several extracts from Pastor Russell's sermons to establish the point. He quoted Pastor Russell's prediction that the millenium "will begin in 1914" and his subsequent change to the wording "may begin in 1914," as that year drew nearer. He also criticised Pastor Russell's declaration that Christ had returned to earth in 1874 as an invisible spirit, pronouncing this folly.

"The Second Coming of Christ" was Dr. Chapman's subject, and he paused in his address to remark: "I'd be ashamed to have Him come and find me tied up with a locker club."

Dr. Chapman discussed the hundreds of Biblical references to the second coming of Christ; and the plainness of the prophecy, as for example in Acts 1:11: "This same Jesus which is taken up from you into heaven, shall soon come in like manner as you have seen Him go into heaven."

"As a matter of fact," he said, "the evangelical denominations are agreed as to His coming back, but in the manner of His coming, and the time and the attendant circumstances we differ. To me it is not a question for argument; certainly, it is not a question to divide Christians.

"No one knows when He is to come. It may be soon, but I beseech you to be ready for His coming. God pity you if you are not."

WIFE SAYS MATE TOOK MONEY FROM STOCKING

Using a pocketknife to slit open his wife's stocking and remove the money therein while she lay asleep, was one of the misdeeds attributed to C. H. Johnson, of 61 Carroll street, by Mrs. Johnson in her testimony before Recorder Johnson Monday. She said he refused to support herself and their daughter. The recorder ordered him placed on probation.

Work of Peace Society

Among the achievements during the past year of the Georgia Peace society, as chronicled in the second annual report just issued by Dr. J. J. JITNEY BUS REGULATION IS URGED BY CHAMBER

Committee Appointed to Ask Council to Take Immediate Action

The jitney bus problem, which has been worrying the city council for several weeks, was taken up by the directors of the chamber of commerce Monday at the instance of Asa G. Candler, with the result that the executive committee will appear before a council committee Thursday and urge immediate legislation to regulate the traffic.

In his report of the meeting Secretary Cooper, of the chamber of commerce, says:

"It was the unanimous opinion of the directors that these vehicles as now operated are unsafe and if something is not done to make them so, Atlanta is likely to have some serious accidents.

"In addition to this there was a general discussion of the subject of regulation, including the question of compensation to the city for the use of the streets. As the directors have not sufficient information to suggest a proper ordinance, the secretary was instructed to communicate by wire with a number of cities where the jitney bus has been in operation and secure such information as will throw light on the subject of proper regulation.

PROTECTIVE MEASURES.

"The point was made in the discussion that the kind of service in operation now in Atlanta is only a temporary phase and it is bound to result either in a discontinuance or in a larger and stronger organization which will be a new form of public utility, similar to the motor bus companies of London, Paris and other great cities where the motor bus does almost the entire surface traffic.

"The directors are of the opinion that the subject is one of very great importance, demanding the utmost care to protect the public from accidents and then to establish a basis of operation which will be fair to the city and to all the public utilities concerned.

"The opinion was expressed by several directors, without dissent by any of the others, that the jitney bus ought to pay the city a fair compensation for the use of the streets, but no one was willing without fuller information to say just what this compensation should be.

"The executive committee of the Atlanta chamber of commerce will appear before the committee of council when the matter comes up and will ask for immediate action in regard to safeguarding the operation of jitneys."

SEEKING INFORMATION.

"It will also continue to investigate the experience of other cities with a view to forming some idea as to what would be a fair general regulation of the service.

"Resolutions on this line were introduced by J. T. Holleman and V. H. Kriegshaber."

Councilman Jesse B. Lee, who introduced the original jitney bus ordinance, has called a meeting of the street and electric railways committee for Thursday afternoon at 3 p. m. to consider his ordinance. Considerable data about jitney bus regulation in other cities has now been secured by the committee. Councilman Sam Freeman will ask the committee to also consider his ordinance, which is much less stringent than that introduced by Mr. Lee.

YOUNG GIRLS ESCAPE FROM TRAINING SCHOOL

Two Inmates Didn't Like Idea of Sewing So They Left

School sewing circles and the study of hemstitching and its allied industries, palled on a tall blonde and a small brunette inmates of the Georgia Training School for Girls, to such an extent that they swiftly and unobtrusively left the home Tuesday morning and have since been missing.

An hour later their escape was discovered, but city and county policemen, scouring the country near the home on Baker's Ferry road, could find no trace of them. They are thought to have set out for Atlanta.

The two girls are Pauline Rook, aged 17, described as a tall blonde and very pretty; and Velma Trimble, aged 16, described as small and dark. News of their departure first became known at the home when the sewing class assembled at 9 a. m. Tuesday.

SEASON OPERA SEATS NOW SELLING RAPIDLY

ANTONIO SCOTTI.

Famous Ballet of the Metropolitan to Appear Three Times This Year, Including First Night

A marked increase in the demand for season opera tickets was noticed Tuesday at the two music stores where they are on sale, for operagoers have begun to realize that the season ticket sale ends with this week and that they must hurry to secure choice locations.

The number of opera recitals, by Atlanta singers and readers, the increased demand for phonograph records from the operas to be sung here, and the inquiries as to seats indicates an unusual interest in the approaching season.

A feature of the approaching season which was absent last year is the famous Metropolitan ballet, under the direction of Mme. Rosina Galli, premiere danseuse. It will appear three times, in "The Huguenots," in "Carmen" and in "Rigoletto." Those who saw the ballet in "Gioconda" and "Aida" remember what a great addition it is to an opera season.

Antonio Scotti, the baritone who is celebrating his twenty-fifth year in grand opera, is to appear but once this season, and by a strange coincidence it will be in the role in which he made his debut, that of Count de Nevers in "Huguenots." This opera, by the way, is one of the most notable ever given by the Metropolitan. In Europe it is considered one of the really "grand" operas, and in Paris is given at the official opera house, while many others highly considered in America are relegated to the home of opera comique.

PLANS MADE FOR BIBLE CONFERENCE FOR 1916

The Atlanta Bible conference, which will be held in the spring of 1916 will be one of the most successful ever held by that organization.

Letters have been addressed to the friends of the conference by the executive committee reminding them of the conference. The committee is composed of Rev. R. O. Flinn, S. C. Callaway, H. A. Etheridge and J. J. Eagan.

Because of the protracted illness of Dr. Len G. Broughton, founder of the conference, and the Chapman-Alexander meetings, the conference was not held this year.

Negress "Cussed" Too Loud

After consuming a gallon of beer and a slice of pie in a Butler street lunchroom the profanity of Ada Lewis, negro washerwoman, was such that even Darktown quailed. She was arrested and fined $5.75 by the recorder Monday.

"Why am I slowing down?"

—and then you sit and wonder why—when the wonder is that you have kept the pace so long. For the rush of business with its countless worries falls so heavily on a man's nervous system.

Perhaps you have slowed down a little from exhaustion of the system's forces. But once the nerves have been restored to vigor and the whole system revived, recharged with a new store of energy, the old-time endurance, the old-time capacity to accomplish, will return.

And it is in giving this welcome help to the overworked nerves that Sanatogen has won so many friends. Both a food and a tonic, Sanatogen feeds and rebuilds the impoverished cells, and tunes up the system, infusing new strength into blood and tissues.

Hon. Robert F. Broussard, U. S. Senator from Louisiana, writes: "I am convinced from personal experience that Sanatogen nourishes the nervous system, thus stimulating the mental faculties and increasing one's capacity for sustained work."

Sir Gilbert Parker, M. P., the eminent novelist-statesman, writes from London: "Sanatogen is to my mind a true food-tonic, feeding the nerves, increasing the energy, and giving fresh vigor to the overworked body and mind."

And scores of other famous people, leaders in the world's activities, have written even stronger letters than these. So when you think of this, and the letters of commendation from more than 21,000 doctors, endorsing Sanatogen—surely you cannot deny yourself such welcome and undoubted help!

Bringing Sunshine to the Darkest Day

AUTO MEN WILL BOOST ATLANTA FOR HIGHWAY

Famous Johnson - Sherman Battle March Will Be Urged as Ideal Route

The Atlanta Automobile and Accessory association at an enthusiastic meeting Monday night determined to bring the proposed Chicago-to Miami highway through Atlanta and to this end made plans for sending a big delegation on a special train to Chattanooga April 3 to attend the conference of governors of states along the proposed route.

At this conference an association will be organized to take charge of the plans for the highway and push it to completion as speedily as possible. In addition to the governors attending the conference there will be a large number of county commissioners representing counties along the route.

The Atlanta delegation will be composed of representatives of the Automobile and Accessory association, of the various civic bodies of th ecity, and members of the Fulton county board of commissioners, all of whom will boost Atlanta to the utmost and set forth the reasons why the highway promoters cannot afford to consider any other route than the one through this city.

With them the delegation will take a very interesting map of the famous Johnson-Sherman battle march from Chattanooga to Atlanta, showing the topography of the route and every battle and skirmish that was fought. This route is not only the best from a topographical standpoint between Chattanooga and Atlanta, but is one that abounds in points of historic interest which would be certain to attract hundreds of tourists.

Practically every county between Atlanta and Chattanooga is strongly in favor of the highway and stands ready to build roads in keeping with the very best roads anywhere else between Chicago and Miami.

As for the counties south of Atlanta extending as far as the Florida line, they are bidding against one another to get the highway, and are therefore certain to build very fine automobile roads.

Fulton county, of course, will do her full share and more. Fulton county commissioners of this county are already on record as saying they will take up the highway at any point on the north boundary of the county where it is located, and carry it through to the south boundary of the county with the very best modern type of road construction.

Prospects for an early completion of the entire highway from Chicago to Miami are very bright. Good roads are already built practically all the way from Chicago to Indianapolis and from there to Louisville, Ky., while south of Louisville there are many stretches of fine road which only need to be connected up here and there to make one continuous broad highway from the Great Lakes to the Florida east coast.

LOVERS OF VAUDEVILLE HAVE NO KICK COMING ON FORSYTH THIS WEEK

Exceptionally Good Bill Presented With Plenty of Fun in Every Feature--Joseph Jefferson Headliner

In print, somehow, it doesn't strike one as being exceptionally good, but after you've seen the bill at the Forsyth this week, you'll find there's no kick coming. Even a chronic grouch—one of those perpetual knockers—couldn't have the gall to growl that he didn't get his money's worth and more.

There are Eddie Mack and Dot Williams, dancers, who start the bill off with a swing. Their stairway dance, in which the two do fancy capers up and down a flight of steps, appealed to the audience as good, but nothing like so fine as Mack's imitations in which he literally made his feet "talk."

Jack McCloud and Al Carp, a banjo player and a violinist with hair like a lion's mane, keep up the good pace set by the dancers.

Madden and Fitz Patrick present a splendid playlet, in which Madden, as a burglar, turns out to be all that the audience could wish in a piano player.

Baby Helen follows with some queerly told jokes and some entertaining renditions of "Tipperary" and "I Didn't Raise My Boy to Be a Soldier." Baby Helen is a golden-haired, blue-eyed miss of less than a dozen years, billed as a "prima donna, monologuist, yodler and a miniature Tetrazinni, who sings F above high C." The billing is right.

Joseph Jefferson and company present about the funniest skit of the year. Jefferson's splendid talent is adapted to excellent lines and his number proves one of the season's big treats.

Keller Mack and Frank Orth, in "The Wrong Hero," a funny, snappy skit, bring much deserved applause.

Charlie Ahearns and his big company, present a regular scream—a slapstick scream that "has to be seen to be appreciated."

All of which makes as good now as ever the old time expression, "It's a fine all-round bill." Fine's the word. If you're looking for two hours of fun, it's right on tap at the Forsyth.

Seats for the engagement of "Lady Luxury" at the Atlanta Friday and Saturday, with Saturday matinee, were placed on sale today. This is the first musical show that Atlanta has had in several weeks, and it comes well heralded from an engagement at the Casino theater in New York. The company is under the management of Charles H. Wuers, and Hida Johnson Young, who wrote the book and lyrics: William Schroeder, who composed the music; R. H. Burnsides, who staged the piece; Charles S. Morgan, Jr., who rehearsed the dances, and Lady Duff Gordon, who designed and executed the elaborate costumes, all had a hand in its making.

Atlanta picture fans saw Betty Nansen, the star of the Royal theater of Copenhagen, for the first time Monday and quickly adopted her as one of its many screen favorites. In "The Celebrated Scandal," a William Fox production now being offered at the Grand, she bears out the unusual reputation created upon the legitimate stage. She has only recently come to America, and "The Celebrated Scandal" is her first picture attempt.

"The Celebrated Scandal" will be the offering for today and tonight, after which comes Carlyle Blackwell in "The High Hand." Jacques Futrelle's undying story of love and politics.

County Infirmary Burns

MUNCIE, Ind., March 23.—The county infirmary here burned today. One inmate was burned to death and five others are missing.

Pickaninnies Swipe Banquet Dessert and Have Glorious Feast

Sweet shreds of ambrosia clinging to the hands, mouths, noses and other prominent eating utilities of five small darkies, led to the solving Monday evening of a mysterious disappearance which robbed twenty-five hungry Y. M. C. A. enthusiasts of a delectable desert.

The twenty-five members of the association's general membership committee, had been summoned to a "get-together" supper at the building on Luckie street at 6:30 o'clock Monday evening.

They dined well, their appetite whetted by the announcement of ambrosia and whipped cream for the hereafter. And then came blasting disappointment when the head cook yelled, "It's gone!" The ambrosia, placed upon the kitchen window sill, had disappeared.

It was Harrison Jones, aided by two policemen, who conducted a still hunt for the ambrosia which ended in a negro cabin in the rear of the Y. M. C. A. They found no ambrosia, but a licked platter and an expression of satisfaction on the faces of five young negroes.

The twenty-five enthusiasts dined on whipped cream sans trimmings.

ANGRY NEGRO PUTS OWN CHILD ON HOT STOVE

Fred Greer, colored, returned home Monday afternoon, quarrelled with his wife and in a fit of rage, seized their two-year-old girl baby and sat her on a red hot stove. The child was burned severely in two places, according to its mother.

She was so angered by the occurrence that she called the police, and a cordon of officers surrounding the house Monday night, arrested Greer. He is accused of being the negro who seriously wounded Officer Swords in a pistol duel nearly a year ago.

RECIPE TO STOP DANDRUFF

This Home Made Mixture Stops Dandruff and Falling Hair and Aids Its Growth.

To a half pint of water add:

Bay Rum	1 oz.
Barbo Compound	a small box
Glycerine	1-4 oz.

These are all simple ingredients that you can buy from any druggist at very little cost, and mix them yourself. Apply to the scalp once a day for two weeks, then once every other week until all the mixture is used. A half pint should be enough to rid the head of dandruff and kill the dandruff germs. It stops the hair from falling out, relieves itching and scalp diseases.

Although it is not a dye, it acts upon the hair roots and will darken streaked, faded, gray hair in ten or fifteen days. It promotes the growth of the hair and makes harsh hair soft and glossy.—(Advt.)

The Fall of Przemysl.

With the possible exception of Antwerp, Przemysl is the most important capture in the war. This at least is the contention of the Allies, who believe that the fall of the Austrian fortress "opens a door to Cracow and the plains of Hungary." The Teutons themselves admit the seriousness of their loss, though, naturally, they do not regard it as a decisive stroke in the eastern campaigns.

Przemysl has been invested since early autumn, and until now has withstood its foes with remarkable courage and hardihood. Not until the garrison was reduced to a dwindling ration of horse flesh and was preyed upon by disease did it think of capitulation. It is noteworthy that while the Germans took Liege, Namur an Antwerp after comparatively brief sieges, the Austrian stronghold, though not really as secure and certainly no more bravely defended than those of Belgium, held out for six months. The difference was chiefly that between the giant siege guns of Germany and the ordinary artillery of the Russians.

With the fall of Przemysl, Austria's only remaining garrison in Galicia is Cracow, near the German border; and against that city the Russians are now preparing to hurl their vast and reinvigorated forces. Does this mark the decisive turn in the eastern war which so long has shifted with bewildering uncertainty?

Undoubtedly, the military effect of this capture is farreaching; its moral effect may be even more so. Its significance and possibilities will not be lost upon the wavering Balkan nations. As the attack of the Allies' fleet in the Dardanelles crystallized sentiment in Greece and hastened dvelopments in Italy, so the success of the Russians in Galicia may bring Rumania and Bulgaria to a decision.

If Europe needs our cotton now, she will use two crops after peace is declared.

Georgia's Crop-Growing Lesson.

The preeminent opportunities for raising food crops in Georgia and neighboring States are summed up in this striking passage from a bulletin by the Southern Settlement and Development Organization:

"Southern farmers who practice proper methods of agriculture and soil improvement can grow more bushels of corn to the acre than can the farmers in the so-called Corn Belt of Illinois and Iowa, for the South's climate is preeminently a corn climate. Every nation-wide corn-growing contest has been won by a Southerner—every one of them. Southern farmers can raise cattle, hogs and sheep cheaper than can farmers in other sections of the country, because long crop-growing seasons mean longer pasturing, less feeding and cheaper forage. Southern truck gardeners, by means of multiple farming—that is, growing from three to five or more crops a year on the same land—make much more money from each acre than the truck gardener of the East, North and West. This, the Southern farmer is able to do because of his long crop-growing season. Southern orchards produce finer fruit with more certainty than is produced elsewhere, because the South's climate minimizes frost peril and the South's abundant moisture makes irrigation unnecessary, so that water-logged fruit is not produced."

Georgia's yearly average of crop-growing days is two hundred and thirty-five. In the northermost counties, it ranges from one hundred and ninety to two hundred and twenty days, and in the southern part of the State reaches nearly three hundred days. Ohio's crop-growing season averages only one hundred and sixty-five days; that of the Dakotas, only one hundred and forty; and that of Iowa varies between a hundred and thirty and a hundred and seventy days.

This interesting record shows that with proper methods and due energy Georgia farmers can excel in those branches of agriculture which now are most highly developed in other regions.

It's always an era of hard times with a shiftless man.

Don't force your advice upon people whose friendship you care to retain.

Some men achieve fame, some have it thrust upon them, and some are lucky and escape it entirely.

Among other seasons that may be looked forward to with pleasure is the watermelon season.

Looking to the South.

For permanent relief from the meat shortage, America must look to the States south of the Ohio and east of the Mississippi. That is the opinion of the president of the Union Stockyards and Transit company, of Chicago, who speaks from broad and intimate observation. The day of the big cattle ranges in the West is ending. In the greater part of the North, natural conditions and economic tendencies are against the production of beef animals for market purposes. It is in the South alone, and mainly in the Southeast, that the basic resources of this industry are abundant and easily available.

Georgia, for example, has the climate and pasturage which reduce to a minimum the cost of housing and feeding cattle, and it has thousands of acres, now idle, which could be used profitably for this purpose. Moreover, it is within a comparatively short shipping distance of the great centers of demand. So with other States in the Southeast. They have the natural resources for solving a great problem of the country's food supply, and, at the same time, of increasing immeasurably their own fortune and power.

The scope and importance of this problem is indicated by the fact during the last ten years the supply of food animals has decreased while the population of the United States has grown by giant bounds. In the decade ended 1909, there was a decrease of nine million head of cattle, nine million sheep and five million hogs. In the same period, population increased more than twenty million. From 1909, the tendency continued downward until last year, when a slight increase in meat production was noted. But the gap between demand and supply is still wide.

This condition bears vitally on economic and social interests. It enters largely into the cost of living and standards of living. It affects millions of households. By using its resources to increase the supply of food, the South will exert farreaching influences on the business and, perhaps, the character of the nation.

Before the South can think of feeding the nation, however, it must be prepared to meet its own wants. Before the Georgia farmer can enter the enriching fields of exportation, he must supply his own household's needs. We must solve immediate problems and grasp the opportunities at hand before we can deal with those which loom vast upon the horizon. Some seasons ago an investigator found that the average farm home in Georgia was producing for each member of the family less than two eggs a week, less than two-thirds of an ounce of butter, only two-thirds of a pint of milk a day, and one-third of a hog, one-twelfth of a beef and one-hundredth of a sheep a year. In the same year, the State's money from cotton lacked nearly forty million dollars of paying its bill for foodstuffs bought in distant regions. That is the urgent problem which Georgia must attack with all the care and energy at its command. Let the Commonwealth become self-sustaining as regards food necessaries, and it can then make its wonderful resources felt in every market of America and the world.

There is cheering evidence that the present year will witness the most abundant and most varied production of foodstuffs in Georgia's agricultural record. Certain it is, that every prudent farmer is preparing to raise his own corn and, if possible, his own wheat, his own forage, his own peas, potatoes and other vegetables, and he is preparing to raise his own meat. One autumn of such results will advance the interests of the State ten years, and will present an argument of prosperity so convincing that Georgia will never return to a one-crop system of farming. Having learned to supply its own needs, the South will then turn with confidence and enthusiasm to a larger development of those resources from which nation's meat shortage must be filled.

Society is human nature in full dress.

Honesty should go hand in hand with an insurance policy.

If people talk less of war—which they do—it is not because they have grown accustomed to it, but because they are utterly weary of the whole thing and because they are wisely using their minds on productive work. 1915 Opera, a Great Opportunity

(Augusta Chronicle.)

About as big an error of judgment as could have been conceived was that of the man who intimated, some months ago, that the Atlanta Music Festival association had made a mistake in its decision to bring Metropolitan Grand opera down south this spring.

Everyone realizes the value to the whole south of the Atlanta opera season as an institution. That it is a great force for general culture and musical development throughout the region, as well as a source of deep and unique pleasure to those who can afford to enjoy its offerings, none can doubt. And that the south's heretofore splendid support of this most elaborate, expensive and wonderful of musical enterprises has already given her a large prestige in the musical world those who keep in touch with its periodicals know full well. But the point is that the undertaking of the present season is a thing of keenest value in this regard, and its success a matter of crucial importance to all Dixie.

What could be more significant to a watching world of art than the fact that the south, reputed to be in a state of depression, is the only section of the country, outside of New York, willing to support Metropolitan opera? The success of the enterprise will indelibly stamp this section as the greatest field for musical endeavor and musical appreciation in the United States; for the success of Atlanta opera is only achievable through the love of music in the breasts of a whole people, and not, as in New York or Boston, to the backing of a limited set of millionaires. The true promise of such a reputation can be properly estimated only in the light of those prophecies which hail America, unsoiled by the ravages of a fearful war, as the future home of the world's art.

The path chosen by the Atlanta people was one of infinite wisdom, and the whole south can act as wisely by giving their action the stamp of the most enthusiastic and vigorous approval.

Current Comment.

Victor Emmanuel, King of Italy, is a keen fisherman and spends hour after hour with his rod, though the best of luck does not always attend his piscatorial expeditions. Once, after several hours angling had brought him only three poor fish and he was returning to the castle, he was met by a peasant with a magnificent catch of trout. "You seem to be no great fisherman, to judge by your catch," commented the peasant. "I should say you were about as lucky as the king." "Why?" inquired his majesty. "Oh," replied the peasant, "he thinks he's a great deal of himself as a sportsman, but he is a poor body, much more fit to be a king than a fisherman."—Answers.

If our scholars and literary authorities feel inspired now and then to draw up lists of approved books for inexperienced readers, why not devote themselves as the occasion suggests to compiling brief catalogues of works of immediate appeal to the average reader of intelligence? It requires no particular discrimination to know that Shakespeare is worth while, but how is the casual reader to know what author will give him the best review of the growth of the German Empire, of the Balkan question, of the history of modern Mexico, or a score of other topics suggested by the daily news? Here is a popular service no less important than the reiteration of names familiar to high-school boys and girls. —New York World.

RESCUING MINERS

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

A FEW weeks ago newspapers all over the country recounted the rescue by the trained force of the United States bureau of mines of forty-seven miners, who had been entombed by an explosion in the mines of the New River and Pocahontas Consolidated Coal companies of West Virginia.

• • •

To the casual reader, the details of the New River disaster were much like those of the numerous others that frequently take place. There was a terrific explosion from some unknown cause, which filled the mine with poisonous gases, destroyed its ventilating system and buried alive 164 men. Forty-seven of these may seem to the average reader a rather small percentage to save. In point of fact, that any of the miners were brought out of that poison chamber alive is little short of a miracle, and what is more important, it is a triumph of modern mine rescue methods which is of the utmost significance, both from a humanitarian and from an industrial point of view.

• • •

The death toll taken by our mining industries constitutes one of the most serious industrial problems in the United States. Hundreds of miners every year lose their lives, and only a small percentage of the accidents are due either to their own carelessness, or to that of their employers. A coal mine is an underground labyrinth, often miles in extent, filled with mysterious and deadly forces. Many of the explosions and fires are never adequately explained. The miners necessarily risk their lives in their daily work.

• • •

For many years the bureau of mines has been perfecting methods and apparatus for rescue work in coal mines. It has brought from Germany and other European countries the latest types of oxygen tanks and breathing apparatus. It has sent its demonstration cars all over the country, teaching miners how to rescue and resuscitate their entombed comrades. Above all, it has sought to establish an orderly and effective method of procedure to be used at all disasters.

• • •

In the case of most mine explosions the immediate result has been something close to a panic. Miners have rushed in to the aid of their comrades without proper preparation and have often lost their own lives. Such a case occurred at Hannibal, Wyo., not many years ago when an explosion occurred in a small mine where thirty men were at work. Forty others rushed to their assistance and all of them were killed by a second explosion. Their bones are sealed up in the mine today.

• • •

All the teachings and efforts of the United States bureau of mines have been directed to overcome these precipitate methods and to go about the work of rescue in an orderly and scientific way. At the New River disaster these methods were put into force almost without a hitch. It is probable that every man who was saved who possibly could have been saved, and it was conclusively demonstrated that courage, combined with scientific methods, can greatly reduce the mortality at mining disasters.

• • •

In all of the disasters at which experts of the bureau of mines have been present since the bureau was organized, only 100 men who had been entombed were brought out alive. That forty-seven should have been so rescued in a single small disaster shows how effective the methods of the bureau have become.

• • •

When word of the explosion at New River went humming over the wires, the nearest car of the bureau of mines was several hundred miles away. Furthermore, it had to traverse three different railroads in order to reach the scene. Everything else was sidetracked by the railroad companies, however, and the rescue car rushed to the spot, reaching it at about dark of the day the explosion occurred. There were seven trained government men in the car, and from the United States Coal and Coke company, not far away, ten miners who had been trained by the bureau of mines for rescue work were brought to the scene, making a force of seventeen men in all who were equipped with oxygen tanks and breathing apparatus.

• • •

Upon reaching the mine, the rescue men did not rush in. In the first place, it is useless to rush into a coal mine unless you are familiar with it; and in the second place, it is necessary to be very careful how you rush at all when your life depends upon a few cubic inches of oxygen strapped to your back. The first move of the rescue crew was to get a blue print diagram, or map, of the mine and to study it until they had memorized it in detail. For a coal mine after an explosion is about one hundred times as confusing as the most confusing city in the world with all its street lights out.

• • •

Having learned the lay of the mine in detail, the little force was divided into three crews, and to each of these was added a certain number of men who did not have oxygen tanks, but who carried canary birds in small cages. These three parties were worked in shifts of two hours; one party going into the mine, one remaining at the base for emergency calls, and the third sleeping. This routine was kept up for four days.

• • •

The interior of a coal mine is divided into a number of sections by doors which are called brattices, and are made of cloth which takes up moisture and becomes air-proof. The rescue workers mended each of these brattices as they reached it and were then enabled to ventilate the mine to that point, forcing the poisoned gases in ahead of them.

• • •

For the first three days nothing was found but dead bodies, mostly of men who had died within a few moments after the explosion, or had been killed by it. One of them, for example, had his head blown off. Then, as the repair ventilation system enabled them to force the fresh air farther and farther into the mine, the rescue party suddenly came upon a strange spectacle. Staggering toward them were five men, pale as death through their grime, and barely able to walk. One of them had his head wrapped in an improvised helmet made of brattice cloth, so that his nose was covered, while he fanned air into his mouth with the lid of a tin bucket. These five men had made themselves a small shelter of brattice cloth in such a way that the poisonous gases could not reach them, and had waited there until the repair of the ventilating system by the rescue men had brought the fresh air to them and saved their lives.

• • •

Encouraged by the discovery that there were still living men in the mine, the rescue workers determined to push their way a mile farther, although at great personal risk. This foray brought them to the mouth of a room or branch known as "19 left," which to their amazement was sealed up by a carefully built wall of earth and rubbish. Then, outside the wall, one of the men picked up a scrawled note which told that within the sealed room there were forty-two men who had saved their lives by thus walling off a supply of air before the poisoned gases following the explosion had reached it.

• • •

In a moment willing hands were hacking at the wall, and all of the forty-two men were found alive. Only a few of them were unable to walk. They had been eating the bark from the timbers that supported the roof of the mine and drinking the puddles of dirty water that lay on the floor. Among the crew were all the various types and nationalities that are found among the coal miners of America. There were stolid Englishmen and Welshmen and excited temperamental Italians, and throughout those four days, when the chance of a rescue party making its way through two miles of poisoned passages was their only hope of life, the stolid Anglo-Saxons had been patiently sitting upon the Italians, fighting them with all their strength, to keep them from breaking out of the walled room and into the certain death of the mine proper.

• • •

Thus, nearly a fourth of the unfortunate men who were in the mine when the explosion occurred were brought out alive, and they were probably the majority of all who were not instantly killed by the explosion.

• • •

In this rescue feat, the federal experts were greatly aided by the state forces, under Earl Henry, inspector of mines for the state of West Virginia. Both the state and federal authorities are jubilant over their success. The general use of such systematic and effectual methods as those by which the New River mine was ventilated and searched will undoubtedly greatly reduce the loss of life in American coal mines in the future.

STATESMEN---REAL AND NEAR

BY FRED C. KELLY.
(Copyright, 1914, by Fred C. Kelly.)

WASHINGTON, March 22.—Shortly after the adjournment of congress, a certain southern senator walked up to Representative Finley, of South Carolina, and began to bewail the fact that he had not been able to have two more clerks added to his committee at thhe last moment.

"Why do you want more clerks now with congress adjourned?" asked Finley. "They would just draw pay and have nothing to do until next December."

"Well, you see," explained the senator, "I was going to use them during the summer as field hands on my farm."

This in a letter to Congressman Gordon, of Ohio, from a young man who desired some free garden seeds:

"If the government seeds grow as well as those on sale in the stores, I shall be glad to speak a kind word for the government among my friends."

When ex-Congressman Edward W. Townsend was a budding writer out in San Francisco, he used to seek exercise and recreation at the Olympia Athletic club. He fell in with a young bank clerk who was also taking boxing lessons. Both were good boxers, but the bank clerk worked at it more diligently until he began to surpass Townsend. In fact, he gradually acquired such skill that Townsend lost interest in boxing with him. The sport was too wearing on his features. And nobody could blame Townsend for losing interest. Because the young bank clerk was James J. Corbett.

The worst signature in the next congress belongs to George Holden Tinkham, of Boston. When Tinkham writes down his name it not only fails to look like anybody's signature, but falls entirely short of looking like anything else. Imagine a silhouette of the most mussed up raveling you ever saw and you have only a slight notion of non-committal appearance of Tinkham's handwriting.

Congressman James Gallivan of Boston, took the part of buttercup, once upon a time, in an amateur production of Pinafore. He was then a boy years of age and was extremely cute and cunning youngster, particularly after he had been rigged up in a flaxen wig and doll clothes. Moreover, he was the hit of the show on the opening night. He was the only player who didn't forget his lines. The stage manager made a great fuss over him.

At once little James became proud and strutty and decided to follow the stage as a profession. He could shut his eyes and see a picture and a piece about himself in the New York Clipper; and the piece began: "He got his start as a theatrical star at an amateur performance in Boston."

He went home and told his parents that after he became famous he would not forget his father and mother but would see that they got passes to all the shows.

At the second performance there was a slight change in the situation. All the players who had forgot their lines the night before, took a brace and did not forget their lines. But little James Gallivan, the hero of the opening night, forgot the words of his song the first time up. He ran off into the wings sobbing boisterously and refused to be comforted. They rang down the curtain, and the future congressman then and there quit the theatrical profession flat.

Travelette.

BY NIKSAH.

The people of Buenos Aires maintain great style even in death. La Recoleta' is their fashionable burying ground. It is a miniature city built of marble and other costly stone. Its spires and minarets stand up in the air like the steeples and towers of the greater city around it. One is for the living and the other for the dead.

Paved walks lead through the blocks of tombs, and on every side there are stone angels in prayerful attitudes and bronze virgins standing guard over death. As one passes along the silent avenues a Father Time leans upon his marble scythe and holds up an hour glass to the light of the sun.

The manner of burial here is different from the usual custom in this country. Instead of burying the coffin in the ground, it is put on a shelf in a vault. This vault is arranged like a chapel with alter, candelabra, oil lamps and crucifix. In front of the shrine there will be rugs and cushions upon which to kneel, and rocking chairs in which to rest. On the walls will be wreaths of flowers that were sent to the funeral by relatives and friends. Vases of fresh flowers, and frequently a bronze likeness or a photograph of the deceased, may be seen upon the shelf. On most all of the coffins are exquisite lace coverlets which were worked by loving fingers, many of them being of great value. All the little chapels are neat and cosy and still.

The visitor may unconsciously distrub someone at his devotions because masses are frequently said within the tombs. One can scarcely pass the gates without encountering black-robed bands of mourners, attended by comforting priests. The life of the great city swirls through the nearby streets, but the dead are always coming to the silent little houses in La Recoleta.

Death is one thing that never takes a holiday, even in gay Argentina.

Searchlight

Nothing is more indicative of the civilization of a nation than the uniformity of the standards used in determining its weights and measures. They require absolute uniformity and durability, and be unalterable in weight.

No single metal will give these two requirements, so an alloy has been secured which combines both platinum and irridium with some other substances into a metal known as irridio platinum. This is the substance of which the metres adopted by the international commission of weights and standards are composed.

It is very hard and not affected by cold or heat. It is non-oxodizable, so cannot rust or corrode. It can be so finely engraved that the lines indicating measurements are invisible to the naked eye, although they are accurate, sharp and distinct. These standards are costly and are carefully preserved, and are used only in testing other standards of commercial use.

Quips and Quiddities

William Dean Howells at a dinner in Boston said of modern American letters:

"The average popular novel shows on the novelist's part an ignorance of his trade which reminds me of a New England clerk.

"In a New England village I entered the main street department store one afternoon and said to the clerk at the book counter:

"'Let me have, please, the 'Letters of Charles Lamb.'

"'Postoffice right across the street, Mr. Lamb,' said the clerk, with a naive, brisk smile."

CONTROLLER OF MAXWELL COMPANY VISITS ATLANTA

W. M. Anthony Announces Extensive Plans for Increasing Business in Ga.

W. M. Anthony, controller of the Maxwell Motor Sales corporation of Detroit, was in Atlanta Monday on a nation-wide tour of Maxwell offices, and while here laid extensive plans for broadening the scope of the Maxwell business in Georgia.

To this end Mr. Anthony made a large deposit in the Third National bank, and announced that the corporation will continue to keep a large balance there to facilities the distribution of its products in this territory. Since the business which the Maxwell company does in Georgia is one of the biggest in the country, its bank connections will be many and great.

The corporation has grown within a year from 33d place in the list of manufacturies to third, and during the last six months has done more business than in the whole of the preceding year. The organization is bending all its efforts to rapid and efficient distribution of the car that is wanted.

As financial head of the Maxwell company, Mr. Anthony is naturally in close touch with business conditons all over the country, which, he says, are on the boom.

"Confidence, the goose that lays the golden eggs in America, is being steadily restored," he said Monday. "This means that we are going to get more eggs, or rather, more business, in the near future. Optimism pervades all the leading industries and the automobile trade will thrive as it has never done before—that is, for the companies which manufacture the kind of cars an intelligent public demands.

"It is astonishing how our sales have climbed during the winter months, which enerally is supposed to be the dull season, and right now especially, a dull one in the south. On the contrary, it is easy to sell Maxwells, we have found, and the winter trade in the south, and in fact, all over the country, is on a par with the other seasons. The coming year will be a banner one, judging from the way it has begun."

Bankruptcy Petition

C. W. Olson, an insurance man, filed a voluntary bankruptcy petition Monday, showing liabilities of $18,000 and assets approximately twice that much. Among Mr. Olson's liabilities are notes endorsed by him several years ago.

TURKS MURDER AND ROB CHRISTIANS IN PERSIA

Thousands Take Refugee in American Mission, Says Russian Cable

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, March 23.—The Persian war relief committee, with headquarters in this city, today received this cablegram from Tiflis, Russia:

"All villages burned except three. Two Christian quarters of Urumiah plundered and a great many people killed. Women taken captives. Fifteen thousand refugees in the American mission. Great danger.

"The French mission has been destroyed. There are 10,000 refugees in Russia."

The message was signed by Aslanoff, a Russian contractor of Tiflis.

Urumiah is in northwestern Persia, not far from the Russian border. A dispatch from Djulfa, Persia, received here March 21, said the Turkish consul at Urumiah, at the head of 70 Askaris, recently attacked the American mission there, and that priests and descons were insulted and beaten. Russian troops, it was said, had been sent for to save the lives of Christians.

MOB RULE FOR WEEKS.

Urumiah has been in throes of mob rule for weeks, according to reports to the Presbyterian board of foreign missions. A reign of terror in which marauders and bandits hold sway has driven tens of thousands from the city and into the outlying province, and has sent other thousands to the protection of the American flag which waves over the Presbyterian mission there.

Ten thousand persons were housed in the mission three weeks ago, according to information here. They included almost the entire native Christian population of the city, between 4,000 and 5,000, two or three hundred American missionaries and teachers and a heterogeneous aggregation of foreigners. The doors were thrown open to all.

The missions themselves embrace a number of buildings, including a great school building, a hospital, twenty-five churches and other structures.

RICH PROVINCE.

Urumiah is the center of a rich province of Persia. It was abandoned by the Russians early in the campaign.

The French mission referred to, it was said, embraced 26 chapels and meeting places. The Christian quarters which were invaded, it was said, were occupied by colonies of native Christians who called themselves Nestorians and whose occupancy dated back more than 1,500 years.

MAYOR VETOES MEASURE FOR MORE POLICEMEN

Resolution Appropriating $1,750 for Car Fare Is Also Vetoed

Mayor Woodward has vetoed the council resolution to increase the police force by placing 20 supernumeraries on regular duty, and also the resolution to appropriate $1,750 to pay street car fares for the detectives.

The mayor announced the vote of both resolutions to a meeting of the finance committee Monday afternoon which he took to task for alleged extravagance. He stated that he had just consulted with the tax assessors, and that in their opinion he revenue of the city in 1915 will not exceed that of last year.

The mayor told the committee that he had consulted with Councilman Edwin F. Johnson, chairman of the police committee, and author of both resolutions, and that Mr. Johnson had agreed that the resolution to increase the force would be reintroduced in June if the finance of the city will permit the expenditure.

The mayor also agreed that he would aprove a new resolution by Mr. Johnson to appropriate $500 only for the trolley fares of the detectives. The committee agreed that the detectives should be furnished transportation only when answering calls from headquarters.

No effort to override the mayor will be made in council, but Mr. Johnson at the next meeting will introduce the resolution to appropriate $500 for the fares of detectives.

WILL YOU NOT THINK?

There are only seven more Chapman-Alexander meetings.

You should share in them. Have you done your part?

What are you worth?

To yourself? To your family? To Atlanta?

Saving one soul is better than building many sky-scrapers.

But causing one to stumble and fall is sin so black that Jesus said of one guilty of it---

"It were better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck and he be cast into the sea."

Silver and gold, stocks and bonds, factories and stores cannot save the one who, directly or indirectly, by example or otherwise, whether as an individual, a member of an organization, a stockholder, or as a citizen of a community licensing and tolerating evil, causes the wreck of a single life, the loss of one soul.

Tonight at 7:30 Dr. Chapman's text is Job 18:18---

"He shall be driven from light into darkness and chased out of the world."

You, with your loved ones, are going toward the dawn---

Or, with the lost, you are moving out into the darkness of eternal night.

Either way, you lead others.

ALL FERTILIZERS MUST BE BRANDED CORRECTLY

An order forbidding the word potash in the markings of fertilizers which do not contain any potash was issued Monday afternoon by Commissioner of Agriculture J. D. Price.

Owing to the scarcity of potash due to the almost cessation of imports from Germany the fertilizer manufacturers are finding it almost impossible to get potash in sufficient quantities and are compelled, it is said, to use substitutes. In branding the analysis of fertilizers on the bags some of the manufacturers have been printing "potash 0."

Commissioner Price rules that if there is no potash in the fertilizers the word must not be used at all in the analysis branded on the bags.

How It All Happened

A Rather Remarkable Story of How We Have Finer Materials at Lower Prices This Season in the

Superb Madame Irene Corset

It is with a sense of relief, that we can announce that here is one article of dress that the European troubles have made cheaper.

The outbreak of the war found these conditions existing in Paris—

The makers of corset fabrics were suddenly left without their usual outlet. Their great stocks-on-hand could not be disposed of to the French corset makers. Now the Madame Irene people have long been one of America's greatest users of French-made corset silks, coutils and batistes.

Here then was their opportunity.

They went into Paris and bought, bought, bought corset-fabrics at prices absurdly low as compared with former prices.

And now comes the time when Atlanta women may profit by the good business stroke consummated in Paris several months ago.

The materials used in the new Madame Irene corsets are better by a third than the same prices brought last season.

And the same watchful care that effected such savings was working at the style feature of Madame Irene Corsets—and with happy results.

The Madame Irene Corsets you shall see here now embody the features correct this season. There's no more of the uncorseted figure. A woman stands erect, with easy poise—the Madame Irene raised back acts as a firm, but easy support. There's not the slightest curve at the front or side, but at the side-back just a little demarcation that so admirably helps the lines of the higher-than-usual waist line dresses and suits. The hips are well confined, often with the aid of elastic gussets.

There's comfort and grace in the new Madame Irenes—as a visit to our corset section and a talk with one of the corsetieres will make very plain.

Madame Irene Corsets $5.00 to $25.00

Successos (Made by the Madame Irene People) $2 to $5

Easter Hats

At $10, $12.50 and $15

One of the marks that distinguish this millinery section is its ability to show ever, ever new hats!

That it is possible is a matter of organization. We have positioned ourselves so as to be able to show new things almost every day. There in New York is the shop of Estelle Mershon so closely affiliated with this millinery store, that we get from it at once whatever appears in New York.

Then our own artists here in our own workrooms set to work—and immediately we have at small prices hats that command the attention of the followers of fashions.

Ready today are new hats for the early season, for Easter—call them tailored and simi-dress styles—at $10, $12.50 and $15.00.

Makes Stubborn Coughs Vanish in a Hurry

Surprisingly Good Cough Syrup Easily and Cheaply Made at Home

If some one in your family has an obstinate cough or a bad throat or chest cold that has been hanging on and refuses to yield to treatment, get from any drug store 2½ ounces of Pinex and make it into a pint of cough syrup, and watch that cough vanish.

Pour the 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth) into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. The total cost is about 54 cents, and gives you a full pint—a family supply—of a most effective remedy at a saving of $2. A day's use will usually overcome a hard cough. Easily prepared in a minute—full directions with Pinex. Keeps perfectly and has a pleasant taste. Children like it.

It's really remarkable how promptly and easily it loosens the dry, hoarse or tight cough and heals the inflamed membranes in a painful cough. It also stops the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the persistent loose cough. A splendid remedy for bronchitis, winter coughs, bronchial asthma and whooping cough.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, rich in guaiacol, which is so healing to the membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex," and do not accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction goes with this preparation or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Recipes of Our Pioneer Mothers

For the home treatment of disease were wonderfully dependable. True, they knew nothing of drugs, but owed their success to the roots, herbs and barks of the field. It is interesting to note that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the most successful remedy for female ills we have, was originally prepared for home use from one of these recipes. Its fame has now spread from shore to shore, and thousands of American women now well and strong claim they owe their health and happiness to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.—(Advt.)

Miss Louise Broyles Entertains Bride Elect

The luncheon given by Miss Louise Broyles Tuesday at her home on Juniper street was a pretty compliment to Miss Harriet Calhoun.

The lace-covered luncheon table held as central decoration a large crystal bowl filled with bright yellow jonquils, and the places of the guests were indicated by miniature bouquets of variolored pansies.

The guests were the wedding attendants, and included Miss Pansie May Ottley, Miss Katherine Wills, Miss Margaret Grant, Miss Esther Smith, Miss Bessie Jones and Mrs. Arnold Broyles.

EXERCISE BENEFICIAL TO WOMEN.

Strength Often May Be Gained by Judicious Activity on Part of the Sick.

The woman suffering from the ills of her sex often loses ambition and will not exert herself in the least, her muscles become flabby, her circulation bad and nerves wrecked. Another woman suffering from these ills will lay out for herself a system of convalescent exercises of deep breathing even before leaving her bed. If the woman will but write Dr. Pierce at the Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., she can get free medical advice in such cases, also a 1,000-page book with advice on Hygiene, How to care for the sick, Sex problems, Diseases of women, etc., all for 3 dimes or 30 cts. in stamps to pay for mailing.

The wedding of Miss Annie Elizabeth Standard and Rev. Robert T. Harrison was a pretty event of Monday evening, taking place at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. C. T. Standard, on East Fifth street, Rev. J. A. Sharp, assisted by Rev. Cooper, officiating.

The ceremony was performed in the drawing room before an altar of palms and ferns. The only attendant was the bride's sister, Miss Mary Standard, who wore a gown of blue taffeta and chiffon and carried pink roses.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a smart coat suit of Belgian blue with hat in contrasting shade of old rose. Her flowers were a shower of valley lillies.

Rev. and Mrs. Harrison will reside in Alpharetta, where the bridegroom is pastor of the Methodist church.

OVER 3,000 WITNESSES ARE READY TO TESTIFY

As Yet There Is No Indication Blotter Case Will Be Dropped

The wholesale issuance of subpenas in the suit for $82,500 by the Handy-Crowley company against Dr. Alexander B. Smellie threatens to tie up every court and every office in the court house next Monday when the case comes to trial in the municipal court.

This is the suit in which 3,600 witnesses must be summoned in order for the plaintiffs to prove the circulation of their advertising blotters which they claimed in selling space on the blotters to the defendant.

It so happens that the Handy-Crowley company distributed the blotters in the court house, and Monday morning the bailiffs of municipal court started serving this group of subpenas. Among those summoned were Judge Luther Z. Rosser, Jr., of the municipal court; Deputy Sheriff Dave Williams, Deputy Sheriff Lon Burdett, Superintendent of Schools E. C. Merry, and others. The man who signed the receipt for the blotters is the one subpenaed in each office.

At noon Monday no less than 1,586 subpenas had been served.

As yet there is no indication of a dismissal of the suit because of the magnitude of the witness list.

Crackers Drop First Game to Braves; Moran's Hitting Was Bright Feature

Moran's Hitting Was Feature of Locals' Game

Roy Had Perfect Day at Bat With Single, Homerun and Two Bases on Balls--Teams Play Again Today--Williams vs. Big Bill James

MACON, Ga., March 23.—There was at least one very pleasing feature from the standpoint of Manager Billy Smith to the game between the Crackers and Braves here Monday afternoon. That one consideration was the hitting of Roy Moran. Roy laced one to the far outskirts for a home run on one trip to the plate and connected for a single on his other official "at bat." On two other occasions he advanced to the plate and reached first on free transportation.

"Looks like the old boy is going to hit 'em again," said Manager Smith last night. "If he goes good with the willow this season we are going to have some sweet outfield. There have been few outfielders in this league who had anything on Roy when it comes to covering ground, grabbing fly balls, pegging or general all-round outfielding, and you knew there have been some good ones here, when you remember that Dode Paskert, Joe Jackson, Tris Speaker, Zach Wheat and others went up from this league. Roy is offering to bet that he will hit nearer .300 this season than .275, and from the way he went after Dick Rudolph and Tom Hughes, it begins to look like he knows what he is talking about."

The Braves jumped onto Ike Pearson with a vengeance in the very first frame and after that time there was little doubt about the outcome of the game. But it is in no wise discouraging to the Crackers. The day was cold and chilly, and a pitcher who had had only a week or so at practice, would have been foolish to jump in and try to put everything he had on the ball. Pearson was shooting 'em through with considerable speed at that and the Boston athletes were smashing into it clean and hard. Allen offered a somewhat different repertoire, and Stallings' players found it somewhat harder to connect with his offerings.

Manager Smith reported that Manning was still suffering somewhat from a soreness in a leg, and Potts was stationed at second. The diminutive infielder handled the two chances that came his way, and also hooked onto a couple of safeties. Timon Bowden, a local favorite, landed one good clean rap, a double.

The two teams clash again today. Williams, another former South Atlantic leaguer, is expected to open for the Crackers, and Big Bill James will work for the Braves. The weather today is a bit more favorable and the game promises to be more interesting.

Jim Bluejacket Rated Prize 'Nut'

GULFPORT, Miss., March 23.—Vernon Isaacs, Tiger infield recruit who spent part of the winter at Hot Springs, presents Bluejacket, the Brooklyn Fed Indian pitcher, as his entry in the prize nut of baseball contest. Bluejacket was also at Hot Springs this winter and while there became quite chummy with the Tigerette. In the first place, while Bluejacket is an Indian, his real name is Smith. A few years ago he joined the navy, but didn't like Uncle Sam's service and secured his discharge on the ground of defective eyesight.

Then Smith decided to play ball, and walked forty miles from his Oklahoma home to Battlesville, wearing his blue navy uniform. After various vicissitudes, he was given a contract for $65 a month at Battlesville, which represented a fortune to him. He pitched for a week or so, and, hearing that some other fellow had taken the girl back home to church and Sunday night, announced that he had quit and walked the forty miles back home to dispose of his rival. This done, he walked back to Battlesville, pitched another game or two, secured his check for $65, bought a suit of clothes to replace his uniform, and quit again. The next spring he went to a real minor league, taking the name of Bluejacket from the tip of a bleacherite who recalled the navy togs.

Bluejacket told Isaacs how he came to jump New York for the Feds. It was winter time, and he was in New York, in debt and without a thing to call his own except his wife and a baby. Back home his people were in hard straits because of a drouth. He was approached by a representative of the Wards, who offered twice the salary the pitcher was to get from New York, and a $500 bonus. The necessity of the moment induced Bluejacket to accept and after he had signed the bonus was doubled.

League Ready to Buy Franchise

CHICAGO, March 23.—The Federal league will buy the franchise of the Indianapolis club if the stockholders will withdraw their suit to have the club placed in the hands of a receiver, said President James A. Gilmore, who returned last night from Indianapolis.

"The offer was made in Indianapolis Monday and we feel that it will be accepted when suitable terms are agreed upon," Gilmore declared.

Gilmore returns to Indianapolis today for a meeting of the stockholders of the club. If the Federal league buys the Indianapolis franchise it is said it will be transferred to Kansas City and the Kansas City franchise transferred to Newark, N. J.

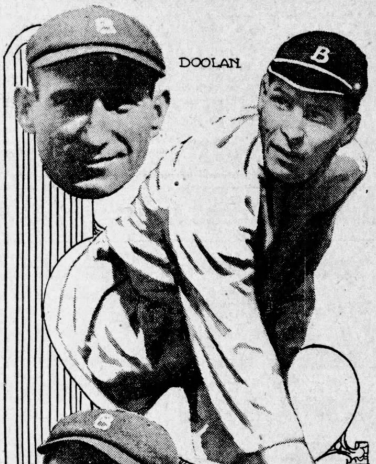
Bill Donovan Sued for Divorce

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 23.—Wild Bill Donovan, manager of the New York Americans, who is here with his team getting in condition for the coming season, was today served with divorce proceedings. Mrs. Helen M. Donovan, now a resident of Reno, Nev., is the plaintiff. The papers were sent here for service, and a local deputy sheriff presented the documents to Donovan this morning.

Mrs. Donovan alleges that she was married to William H. Donovan on March 4, 1905, and that for more than a year he has failed to provide for her, although he makes a large salary as manager of the Yanks.

DIANA DILLPICKLES (THE PLOT TO LEARN HER AGE) IN HER HOT SKETCH

BENDER MAY MAKE CHAMPS OF KNABE'S BALTOFEDS



BY HUGH S. FULLERTON.

In many respects Baltimore is the best constructed team in the Federal league. Whether it wins the pennant or not it has more promise of consistency than any other club in the circuit. It seems to lack the punch and brilliancy to win by a spurt or long series of victories, but it will keep plodding away at better than a .500 per cent clip and be there or thereabouts at the finish.

Being the first of the Federal league teams I have studied this season I lack complete comparisons with other clubs, but unless some of the others have strengthened a lot, Baltimore is going to crowd up to the top. Last season they lacked in two departments—catching, which was only mediocre but steady, and pitching. The big problem is whether or not Chief Bender will come into the league in the condition to work his best. The chief had the best season of his life last year, in spite of the fact his fast ball was not hopping as keenly as it once did, and he carried the Athletics through.

Catching looks only fair. Jacklitsch is a veteran who is reliable and steady. Russell is aggressive and a hustler, but has not yet developed to major league caliber.

Bender, of course, is expected to lead the pitchers, and he has a lot of capable assistants. Suggs ought to have another season or two of good ball left in him and Wilhelm is fair. Quinn, of course, never has fulfilled all his promises of greatness. Smith is the same old erratic genius. Bailey and Conley are expected to show much development.

It is not a strong pitching staff, but a steady one, and it will have to depend upon Bender for the extra percentage to lift it high enough to win.

The real strength of the club is around second base, with Knabe on second and Mike Donlan at short. Both are great field leaders and their work around the sack is close to that of Evers and Maranville.

Big Harry Swacina developed last year into a regular first baseman.

There will be a battle for third base job, which also may affect the outfield, as both the third base candidates also can double in the outer garden. Guy Zinn, who broke a leg a year ago, is the most likely regular. Jimmy Walsh, who held down the bag last year, is a useful man anywhere, and the crowd into the outfield if Zinn takes the base. Fitzpatrick is trying hard for an infield job and will be the understudy.

The outfield from present looks will be Kommers, Bates and either Zinn or Walsh.

Altogether it is a pretty well balanced ball club, and pretty close up to the major league standard in all departments.

Meeting to Form Athletic Federation

Pursuing its policy of furthering athletic activities among the Sunday schools of Atlanta, the local Y. M. C. A. has scheduled a meeting of school superintendents and class members who are interested in baseball for tonight at the association building at 8 o'clock. This meeting will take up the formation of an athletic federation among the Sunday schools, in which the prime consideration for the present will be a baseball league for the coming season. All superintendents are invited to attend this meeting, and as many attendants of schools as desire.

Umpire Baiting Born of Fighting Spirit---Evers

BY GRANTLAND RICE.

MACON, Ga., March 23.—Returning from the diamond, where the Boston Braves put in a snappy practice a few days ago, the conversation turned to umpires, and finally Johnny Evers, captain of the world's champions, was asked his opinion on umpire baiting, so called. He replied:

"I don't believe in looking for a chance to go after an umpire. But I believe in a player putting his whole heart and soul into a game, in fighting every minute he is on the field. And when a player works himself into this pitch it is hard to keep quiet when you believe that some bad decision has cost you a game that you worked so hard to win.

"You say that getting after the umpire doesn't ever change a decision or do any good. Probably not. But when I am in a game I never think of anything but winning that game. If I didn't care, if I could take the game easily, without getting keyed up, I would never open my mouth. But I can't take the game that way. To me it is a battle, and I lose sight of anything else."

Those who figured in 1911 and 1912 that Evers was through and was fading fast should take a look at him today. He is one of the youngest looking men on the squad, one of the quickest and one of the game's greatest hustlers. And he believes he is going to have as great a year as he has ever known.

"The only time I feel old," said Johnny, "is when I read or hear that another of the old Cubs has drifted back and passed out, or that some man I broke in against or played against is through.

"Then I begin to figure that I must be getting along myself and that my time must be nearly up. But I seem to feel younger each year and to like baseball better. If I am slowing up I don't feel it, although I guess it takes a little longer each spring to get my arm in condition and to get going at top speed.

"As far as this season is concerned, I know I feel as young as I did that day nearly thirteen years ago when I came to the Cubs. If they would only keep the paper from mentioning that another old Cub had slipped back from the battle line I'd still be a young man ten years from now, or twenty years from now.

"It's only when you begin to think you are old that you lose your grip. And I would never think about it except for that."

Moguls Reject Fultz's Scheme

Ban Johnson Says Plan to Arbitrate Baseball Differences Would Avail Nothing--Federals Willing

CHICAGO, March 23.—Chicago baseball authorities disagree as to the suggestion of David L. Fultz, of the Baseball Players' fraternity, that a board of arbitration be appointed by warring factions. Federal league officials approved the plan; organized baseball men thought it came too late to be effective. James A. Gilmore, president of the Federal league, said:

"Fultz's idea is all right. The differences could be settled in a short time."

B. B. Johnson, president of the American league, said: "Fultz's scheme is an old one, but what would be the good of it? We did not start this fight."

Johnson added that an immediate financial retrenchment was necessary in baseball and suggested that a solution of difficulties in which club owners find themselves like the abandonment of the spring training season for the majors and the closing of the parks of five or six of the minor leagues for a few years.

"The spring training trips have come to be jokes," said Johnson. "The clubs are each losing something like $3,000 to $4,000 a year on the trips and getting little benefit."

Huey Tied With Daly for Lead

CHICAGO, March 23.—William Huey, of Chicago, lost his first game last night in the world's three-cushion billiard championship tournament here and now is tied with John Daly, of New York, for first place, each having seven victories and one defeat. Daly's victory over Jevne in the third game yesterday secured him second place, and Huey's defeat in the final game of the day made it a tie. Charles Ellis, of Cleveland, defeated Huey, 50 to 41.

John Hannan, of Minneapolis, defeated August Kieckhefer, of Milwaukee, in the first of Monday's matches. In the second game Joe Capron, of St. Paul, defeated George Moore, of New York. Moore has lost one other game, but has been considered by experts to be one of the strongest contenders for the championship.

Cook Now Leads Single Bowlers

PEORIA, Ill., March 23.—Walter Cook, of Philadelphia, rolling in the singles of the American Bowling congress, took the lead Monday with 697. Only once before in the A. B. C. has this been equaled. F. Wengler, of Chicago, rolled 699 in 1908.

H. Allen and R. Allen, of Detroit, went to the top today in the doubles with 1,297. Late last night, in the five-men event, the Barry Steler K. C. team, of Chicago, took the lead with 2,907.

RAILING AT THE NEWS BY INNIS BROWN

The efforts of David Fultz as peacemaker in the ranks of baseball have been rejected. As president of the Ball Players' fraternity, Fultz proposed that the Federals and organized forces get together and settle the existing differences between them by arbitration. But on Monday his plan was taken up for discussion in Chicago and was rejected. It was opposed by Ban Johnson, president of the American league, who averred that nothing could come of it, and that organized forces did not start the fight, and were not, therefore, making any special efforts to stop it, now that it is on.

Doubtless Johnson's stand was born of his fighting spirit, which prefers that the strife continue, even though both parties are losing rather than that his side concede something toward peace for the common good. It is also probable that others within his ranks disagree with his stand, but so long as no unanimous agreement within organized ranks toward peace negotiations can be had, it is likely that the diamond war will continue.

There is in connection with Johnson's stand one feature worthy of consideration. The American league president says a retrenchment is necessary all along the line. He advises that major league clubs abandon spring training trips, which cost each club a bunch of money annually, and also that the parks of several minor leagues be closed up for a few seasons.

As to the training trips of the majors, President Johnson may be, and doubtless is, correct in his contention. But his other suggestion is surely open for discussion. Baseball as a paid amusement is being assailed not only from within, but from without. While the present strife between the Federal league and organized forces is boosting the cost of production, and at the same time leaving something of an unpleasant taste in the mouths of fans the country over, other factors are working steadily toward tearing down the great following which the game has built up.

Those who are in a position to know claim that golf is annually increasing its hold on the American sport-loving public at a rapid rate. Likewise tennis is annually gathering a greater following, and other summer sports are cutting in also. Thousands of those who a few years ago took no active part in athletic sports, are now engaging in one of these, and as a rule they prefer to play some game themselves, even though in a rather unskilled manner, to travel-ing out to watch a cast of paid athletes play baseball.

Now, if a half dozen or so of the smaller leagues of the country should follow Johnson's lead and close their parks for two or three seasons, the result would be easy to forecast. People don't often, in which these leagues operate clubs, would not sit down idly and await the reopening of the parks two or three years hence. Instead they would look about for other forms of amusement and recreation. And once they have taken to golf tennis, or other forms of sport, they would be as good as lost to baseball from a box office standpoint. It has taken years of hard work on part of baseball club owners to educate the public up to baseball, and to deliberately shut the gates in the faces of their patrons for a period of two or three years would be less than wiping out the results of their labors.

Of course President Johnson does not anticipate closing any American league park gates. His league will continue to do business, war or no war. It has sufficient backing to drop a bunch of money each season for several seasons, in order to continue the fight. But the same does not apply to the smaller leagues, many of which operate at a loss to several of their clubs annually under normal conditions. The inevitable results of war, that the real suffering falls to the general masses, applies in diamond strife as well as in war fare, in which guns and cannister instead of injunctions and other court methods, form the chief weapons of battle.

President Fultz, speaking for the baseball players' fraternity, represents a more wide-spread interest than does President Johnson acting for the American league for there are members of the fraternity scattered among the smaller leagues, who are seriously affected by the diamond war. Hence, baseball men who really have the interest of the game and of the men who play it and derive a livelihood therefrom at heart, would do well to consider carefully the plans offered by the leader of the brotherhood for peace negotiations.

Dothan Rushing Work on Grounds

DOTHAN, Ala., March 23.—Work on the Dothan baseball park is being rushed with all possible dispatch in an effort to have everything in readiness by the time the team begins practice, April 12. The entire tract has been plowed, leveled with a road machine, harrowed and then rolled. A large force of carpenters is at work building fences, grand stand, bleachers and other buildings. The grounds are centrally and conveniently located and Dothan will have one of the best parks in the south.

Manager Reidy is busy sending out contracts and getting in touch with likely candidates who wish to try for the team. While there are a large number of men already signed for a tryout, and picking a good team is now assured, Reidy is still taking on candidates who have good records and will give all of them an opportunity to show what they can do. He says that he feel sure that he will have at least a first division club.

Griffin Clubs Elects Officers

GRIFFIN, Ga., March 23.—At an organization meeting, the Griffin Baseball association, which will maintain a team in the Georgia-Alabama league during the coming season, the following officers were chosen: John H. Mills, president; Paul J. Shaloss, first vice president; C. G. Mills, second vice president; G. C. Cauthorn, secretary, and J. P. Nichols, Jr., treasurer. Manager Hawkins, who formerly played in the Appalachian league, has informed the club officials that he has already signed up several players.

Many Changes In Tennis Dates

The National Championship Matches Are Moved From Newport to Forest Hills This Season

NEW YORK, March 23.—The lawn tennis season of 1915 was formally launched today by the announcement of tournament dates issued by the United States National Lawn Tennis association. The schedule is the longest ever issued by the national association. It contains 167 tournaments, covering every state in the union. Later applications probably will add about fifty tournaments to this list.

The most notable change this year is the shifting of the national championships from Newport to the West Side Tennis club at Forest Hills, Long Island. This brought about a general rearrangement of local dates. Owing to this fact also the executive committee took the New York state championship from the Crescent Athletic club in Brooklyn and gave it to the Yahnundasis Golf club of Utica. The New York Metropolitan champion is shifted from the courts of the West Side Tennis club to the Bronxville Athletic association.

The women's national championship goes to Philadelphia for the week of June 7. To compensate Newport for the loss of the national championship the committee sanctioned an invitation tournament to be held at the Newport Casino beginning August 16. The women's Metropolitan championship (New York), hitherto held in the fall, will be one of the early events this year, starting on the West Side club courts May 22.

Forty-eight important tournaments are scheduled for August, leading up to the national championships on August 30. Three tournaments will be played at the Panama-Pacific exposition grounds in San Francisco, on the Pacific coast, championship starting June 19, the Panama-Pacific championship July 19, and the California state championship September 10.

SHORT COVERING AND BULL SUPPORT CAUSED ADVANCE

Market in New York Closed 5 to 20 Points Higher--New High Record

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, March 23.—There was considerable realizing in cotton today and after opening unchanged to 1 point lower, active months sold about 5 to 7 points under last night's figures. The somewhat reactionary tendency of Liverpool probably promoted profit-taking around the local ring, but offerings were not large enough to cause any material weakness and trading was quiet at the decline. Reports of continued low temperatures in the southwest probably checked selling for a setback, but buyers were less aggressive after the recent sharp advances.

Fluctuations were more or less irregular during the entire morning. Advances seemed to be considerable profit taking but there was some real buying on moderate reactions and the market was fairly steady shortly after midday with prices within 2 or 3 points of last night's closing figures.

The market turned decidedly firmer during the early afternoon on covering by new month traders who may have been influenced by reports of increasing difficulties in making deliveries against the May cotton. Offerings were rarts sold up to 9.16, making a new high record for the season, and active months generally sold about 5 to 12 points net higher.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

(By Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, March 23.—Poor cables in spite of profits on long cotton at the opening today and under the short covering in anticipation of a reaction with the result the last half an hour after the opening were five to six points under yesterday's close. Trading was small in volume throughout the day and prices showed little change. At noon the market stood at a net loss of 6 to 8 points.

The report that the department of agriculture will not make a cotton forecast is incorrect and appealed, caused heavy buying and a spurt in prices which put the market 6 to 10 points over yesterday's close at 1:30 o'clock.

WILL D. WATTERS IS SLAIN BY W. DANIEL FOLLOWING QUARREL

shooting. At first he declined to discuss it. Later he told a Journal reporter everything.

ANOTHER VIEW.

He said when he first looked across the street he thought Daniel and Watters were talking; when he looked the second time they were scuffling, and blood was trickling down the side of Daniel's head; they broke and both drew guns and fired their first shots simultaneously. Watters fell to the floor by the first shot of Daniel, but fired again; Daniel fired three times.

At Daniel's office, Mrs. King continued. Watters grabbed hold of the iron railing around a basement window of the library, yelled in a loud, terrible voice, "Oh, my God!" and then spun around two or three times and fell headforemost on the horse block in front of the library and fired his gun into the air.

While Daniel stood looking at him, King declared, a man came by and ran his hands over Watters' pockets, took out the gun and walked rapidly toward Forsyth street and disappeared, while Daniel walked rapidly across the street toward the Lyric theater, then stopped and turned and looked back on the body of the man he had killed.

WATTERS A SINGLE MAN.

Watters was not married. He is survived by two brothers, S. Watters, of Birmingham, Ala., and A. S. Watters, of Cleveland, O., and two sisters, Mrs. Ed Whatley and Mrs. Ella Hunt, of Atlanta, and Mrs. Silas Forsler, of Cleveland, O.

According to relatives, Watters came to Atlanta only a few weeks ago from Birmingham, and had since been living at 204 Washington street. They said he was a man of particular business, mostly hanging around town.

Watters' body was removed to H. M. Patterson's undertaking parlors.

Daniels, who is said to be both a tinner and bookkeeper, leased the apartments at 211-12 Spring street from Mrs. Liebman & Co. At this firm's office it was said that Daniels was understood to have a wife and two children.

WIFE NEAR SCENE.

Mrs. Daniels could not be located. Persons who do, however, say that the statements from Daniels said they did not know whether he was married or not. Neighbors said that he was. It was generally thought in the tragedy that Mrs. Daniels, who was out walking with her collie dog was but a block away at the time of the shooting and that she witnessed it from the corner of Spring street and Carnegie way. This could not be learned.

Employes of H. M. Patterson who placed Watters in the ambulance soon after the shooting, before the body was moved, found no weapon of any kind on him. In his pockets were a deck of cards, a bunch of keys, some small change and a dollar bill and a telegram in regard to a shipment of chewing gum.

LIBRARY WINDOW BROKEN.

A bullet fired through the window opening on the basement of the Carnegie library where reference books are kept led detectives to believe that one of the men might have hurled his revolver through the window pane. Only a search of the room could determine this, and officers had taken no steps in that direction an hour after the shooting.

Examination of Watters' body at the undertaking establishment showed that he had been shot twice, once through the heart and once through the abdomen.

Coroner Donehoo investigated the shooting and announced that no inquest would be held, as there were plenty of eye-witnesses to the affair. Preliminary arraignment of Daniel probably will be had for a near date before Judge Johnson.

EMPLOYS JOHN MOORE.

A short while after the shooting, police headquarters, Daniels retained the services of John W. Moore, of the law firm of Moore & Branch, and of Attorney John A. Boykin. He told police and reporters alike that he would make no statement whatever about the shooting until he had consulted his lawyers.

It happened that in the middle of the day, the shooting attracted one of the largest crowds that ever assembled in downtown Atlanta. Long before the patrol wagon of officers arrived on the scene, the street in front of the library was black with people, knotted into little groups where those near who had seen the shooting held forth at length.

STREET BLOCKED.

When the officers arrived the crowd surged across Peachtree street with them to Cooper's barber shop, where Daniel was. Traffic was temporarily blocked, and with every moment more men and women were added to the throng. From the windows of the library many heads looked down on the mass of humanity, and the front steps were packed with people.

Many jammed close about the railings to glare at the hole smashed in the window; more hung over the sidewalk where it was spattered with blood. Incoherent accounts of the shooting flew back and forth, and it was hard for detectives to make any headway whatever.

Slayer of Walters Is Not Walter T. Daniel

Walter T. Daniel, a city salesman with W. King company and living at Decatur, requested The Journal to say that the man Daniel, who did the shooting, was in no way connected with him.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET WAS ACTIVE AND BROAD

Union Pacific, National Biscuit, General Motors, Copper and Steel Firm

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, March 23.—Selling stocks were again relegated to the background at the opening of today's stock market, while speculative specialties resumed their recent activities. Bethlehem Steel made a new high record at the very outset, selling up to 78 in the early dealings, a gain of 1 to 2 points were registered by other shares of less prominence. Reading's continued heaviness—the stock declining a point in the early dealings—acted as a restraining influence among shares in the railway division and caused a moderate reaction elsewhere.

Bethlehem Steel made a further decline to 68¾ during midday, but recovered to 70 in short order. Meanwhile United States Steel, Amalgamated, Reading and Union Pacific moved to higher levels on renewed activity and increasing breadth of operations.

Bonds were irregular.

Insurance interests attend the final dealings. Reading, Steel and Amalgamated extending previous gains.

The closing was strong.

INTERESTING NEWS AND GOSSIP OF THE MARKETS

Weather Reports, Crop Advices, Expert Opinion and Newspaper Comment

COTTON GOSSIP

Times-Picayune says: The cotton market is evidently dominated by forces far mightier than the ordinary influenced technicalities. In such a market the average professional is in the case of a navigator whose compass has broken down. Consequently he possibly knows what is behind the persistent buying there can be small hazard in the assumption that belief in a reduced acreage, coupled with hope of an early peace constitutes the main cue.

Nevertheless, there are many points which wise men will not forget. For example the prices on the seaboard are now in the neighborhood of last year's, from which it is to be inferred that exports will soon show a sharp, falling off. This item is important because Europe's premises are so stiff that a slump in the spot demand would incite holders to hedge on the grand scale. Besides it may all be doubtful if the average investor will justify the more conservative forecast, with prices approaching 10 cents at New Orleans and New York.

On the other hand a solidly bullish argument is found in the following letter from a leading cotton firm: "During last year fifty-one carloads of mules were received in Atlanta over and above the local demand. This year none have been received, but twenty-one cars have been shipped out during the month of February and sold to foreign governments. In Greenwood county 300 mules have been shipped in this season. There were about 3,000 mules in Greenwood county so that 10 per cent have been shipped.

"This is a clear indication of reduced acreage. Such a shortage in mules will not only be felt in the spring but will mark the spot demand would incite holders to hedge on the grand scale. Besides it may all be doubtful if the average investor will justify the more conservative forecast, with prices approaching 10 cents at New Orleans and New York.

Logan & Bryan say: Demand is broadening in cotton, and trade is active and commission house and local bulls bought. Early heavy offerings easily absorbed. We believe it will make very little impression as the demand for industrial stocks shows no abatement. Many traders are still inclined to sell shorts just starting to cover in steel.

We believe the market is at present tiring to move will be Colorado Fuel and Iron.

GRAIN GOSSIP

Logan & Bryan say: At the lower level there may be a renewal of foreign buying which will give the market a temporary upturn but shows every further quirky on any signs of strength. On the other hand, the cash wheat situation is very strong and that is where the season is slack, the crop outlook fine, the political situation clearing and uncertain as to any further unfavorable news, and there is much bearish feeling in the trade.

Considerable attention was noted on the buying side of corn late yesterday because of some statements credited to Secretary Wilson. In all markets would guard against an oversold condition and would not be surprised to be influenced by any violent turn in wheat either way.

We have some information regarding reductions in the acreage of corn from Argentina and we are of the opinion that wheat should be bought on all declines and corn sold.

The grain markets, especially corn, have the appearance of being manipulated at the moment, and any encouraging news should give us a smart rally from these levels. Bradstreet's estimates an increase of from 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 bushels in the world's wheat crop this year over 1914. American Car Foundry company to share in the business. Demand also noted for Canadian Car and Foundry company by Russia. Officials in the Canadian Northern Pacific Marine say no truth in report that receiver will be asked in near future.

Logan & Bryan say: There is a fair increase in the cuttle demand for stocks and we look for considerable buying on the dips.

Indiana Pipe Line company declares a yielded of $2 a share, payable April 15 to stock of record April 24. This is at the same rate as declared quarterly.

J. S. Bach & Co. say: Union Pacific and Southern Pacific are entitled to fine improvement. Southern Pacific also looks higher. The usual profit taking has been indicated but believe it will make very little impression as the demand for industrial stocks shows no abatement. Many traders are still inclined to sell shorts just starting to cover in steel.

WHEAT IN CHICAGO WAS STRONG IN LATE TRADING

Wheat Closed 2 1-8 to 3 3-4 Cents Higher--Corn, Oats, Lard and Sides Are Up

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, March 23.—Wheat eased off today in attempted with lower cable quotations and because of fine weather. After opening ¼c off to ¼c up, the market underwent a moderate general setback and then regained most of the loss.

Reports that Hessian fly had become a menace in many more places than usual, brought a sharp wheat advance, and the close was 2 1-8c to 3 3-4c above last night.

Speculative trading in corn was active. Opening prices, ¼c to ¾c lower, were followed by an additional ¼c.

Corn developed firmness owing to the late strength of wheat. The close was strong, 2 to ¾c net higher.

Buying by packers interests made oats relatively firm.

Provisions were weak with hogs.

Fitzhugh Knox Sells the Euclid Apartments in Inman Park to Judge John S. Candler, Taking Farm and Cash as Payment--Adair Banquet at Druid Hills Club the Big Event of Tuesday--Real Estate Men to Attend in Force

Fitzhugh Knox has sold to Judge John S. Candler the property known as the Euclid apartments in Inman Park.

The property is at the northeast corner of Euclid avenue and Hurt street, occupying two lots of aggregate frontage of 2 feet, 50 of which is on Poplar circle.

Judge Candler gave an unencumbered farm and $15,000 cash as payment. The papers covering the transaction went to record on Tuesday.

ADAIR BANQUET TONIGHT.

The big event, of course, is the banquet which Forrest & George Adair will give the real estate fraternity Tuesday night at the Druid Hills club in celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the firm.

The celebration will begin promptly at 8:30 o'clock. In this connection the announcement is made that the occasion will be informal, and that it will not be necessary for the guests to wear full dress. Anything from overalls up will go.

With a few exceptions, the guests will be exclusively real estate agents now actively in business. Clark Howell, editor of the Constitution, will act as toastmaster.

There will be only three formal speeches. They will be delivered by Governor Slaton, by General A. J. West, who himself is a veteran real estate agent, and by Major John S. Cohen, of The Journal.

It will probably be the largest gathering of real estate men ever held in Atlanta, and the historic feature of the occasion will lend it special significance.

There will be a good time all around, and nothing has been spared for the enjoyment of the guests.

How You Can Quickly Remove Hairy Growths

(Aids to Beauty)

A well known beauty specialist advises this treatment for the removal of hair from the face. Mix into a paste some powdered delatone and water, apply to hairy surface and after about 2 minutes rub off, wash the skin and every trace of hair has vanished. This method is quick and entirely safe. To avoid disappointment, however, it is well to make certain you get genuine delatone.—(Advt.)

FALLING HAIR MEANS DANDRUFF IS ACTIVE

Save your hair! Get a 25-Cent bottle of Danderine right now.

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scurf.

There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight—now—any time—will surely save your hair.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, luster and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become so wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance; an incomparable gloss and softness, but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.—(Advt.)

TAKING CALOMEL FOR CONSTIPATION

LIKE BORROWING FROM MONEY SHARK.

Every Dose Means a Bigger One Next Month. Calomel Shocks System Into Temporary Action. Only, Weakens, Robs Organs of Natural Action.

Calomel is a powerful mercurial drug. It crashes into the sour bile on the stomach and works it up, and the shock and working up of the bile forces liver and bowels to action. But with this forcible movement, and the vomiting and the awful nausea, the whole system is weakened, bowels paralyzed, and a relaxing dose of castor oil or strong salts must be taken.

Now as only the sour bile has been removed from the stomach, and nothing done to correct what caused this bile and constipation, in a few weeks is needed another and a stronger shaking up.

JACOBS' LVER SALT acts upon the liver as surely as calomel, but by stimulation, not force. It removes the cause of the trouble. It dissolves the poisonous uric acid that has accumulated in the system and carries it off in the urine; and it quickly overhauls the alimentary tract and cleanses it of all clogging waste and fermentation. And it combines exactly with the gastric juices of the stomach and supplies the deficient sulphates that nature uses to digest food and prevent uric acid deposits.

JACOBS' LIVER SALT is a natural and quick remedy for constipation, biliousness, indigestion, sour stomach, rheumatism, gout, neuralgia and all other hepatic ailments. It is effervescent and agreeable, quick to act, very mild and sure. No other liver medicine has the same natural, stimulant effect. Don't take a substitute. 1-2 lb. jar 25c at druggists. Jacobs' Pharmacy, Atlanta, Ga.—(Advt.)
